PHOTOGRAPHICS

Photographics was a concept to bring special photography and unique graphics together into one book. The cover, endsheets, division pages and faces section contain artwork and graphics for an esthetic appearance. The news, features and events section, the honors section, the academics section, the organizations section and the sports section all have used different types of photography which you will be able to identify as you look through the book.

Fall News

In the fall of 1986, 13,976 students, including a "bigger, better" freshman class were welcomed to campus. The 2,546 beginning freshman had an ACT average of 20.8, five percent better than the fall 1985 class. Among the freshman were five Sturgis Fellows, the first recipients in a new scholarship program in the J. William Fullbright College of Arts and Sciences, which awards each student $10,000 a year.

Financial Aid

Fall 1986 greeted many students across the nation with late financial aid checks. At this campus, over 2,500 financial aid recipients had to wait while their aid papers were processed. Lenthon B. Clark, UA director of financial aid, blamed the problem on new federal guidelines, which required verification of information submitted by applicants in the Family Financial Statements and the fact that many students missed the April 1 application deadline.

In early October, the 500 to 700 students still without aid were promised that their checks would be in by November. Clark announced that the state legislature, which funds 80 percent of state scholarships, had reduced the amount of maximum award from $600 to $465.

On October 17, President Ronald Reagan signed the new financial aid reauthorization law. According to Clark, provision of the law would mean that about 30 to 40 percent of UA students would be ineligible for a Guaranteed Student Loan in 1987-1988. The law also calls for working students to contribute $700 or 70 percent, whichever amount is greater, of their income toward college expenses to receive financial aid.

Dec. 8, Clark announced that all but about 100 students had received their fall financial aid allotments. He said students who had applied in September and November would probably receive their checks sometime during the spring semester.

Building Openings,

Construction and Maintenance

The new Bell Engineering Center was not completed in time for fall classes. The 116 classes that were scheduled to meet in the building had to be relocated. Minor G. Wallace Jr., director of UA Facilities Planning, said the late opening was caused by construction delays experienced by Castle Construction, the building's contractor.

The student Health Center was remodeled over the summer. Work on the first floor involved separating the billing, insurance and business operations and moving the pharmacy. The second floor received new carpet, and the nurses station was moved to the end of the hall, making room for a walled-in library/conference room. The restroom was modified to accommodate handicapped persons.

During early September, Leo Yanda, director of the UA Physical Plant, told The Arkansas Traveler that 28 electrical transformers containing polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) had been found on campus over the summer. He said 14 of the transformers would be replaced and 14 would be retrofitted. Yanda also said that physical plant personnel had begun inspecting buildings for asbestos. "Luckily, most of the asbestos we're finding a ceiling sprayed with asbestos," Yanda said. He said the material was being removed as it was found.

Sept. 27 marked the long-awaited opening of the UA Museum. The renovated men's gym was turned into prehistoric times as the show highlighted an animated exhibit called "Dinosaur Days." Other displays and exhibits included casts from original fossils; geology; seashells; ornithology; endangered animals; man's quest for light; prehistoric chipped stone tools; obsolete household items of the early 20th century; pottery influenced in design by animals and birds; animals in literature; 18th century Meissen porcelain; look back at the University; Grandpa's workshop; textiles and early looms and Arkansas Indians.

Athletics

Rick Schaeffer, UA sports information director, made the news when he refused to release information about the Razorback Football team to Playboy Magazine. Playboy, as well as others, claimed that this refusal to release information was a violation of the freedom of information act. In an interview with Traveler reporter, Schaeffer said that the athletic department was "in a situation of trying to do what is best for college athletics." During the interview, Schaeffer said that nobody knew whether "looking at those things (magazines such as Playboy)" caused crime or not. Schaeffer said "as far as Playboy itself, the thing we, the athletic department, do not feel like it is in the best interest of the school athletes."

Sept. 15, UA President R. Thornton, said that Rick Schaeffer had erred when he invoked religious reasons for refusing to help Playboy magazine prepare its annual football story. Thornton said he stood behind the school's decision not to provide information. Thornton said criticism that the decision was censorship was "a bum rap" because the University believed in freedom of information and complies fully with the freedom of information act." Thornton said Schaeffer "made a mistake in stating his personal religious views as the bias for University action, and has been corrected."

In the Oct. 31 issue of The Arkansas Traveler, it was reported that Ron Hightower had resigned as head coach of the Arkansas tennis team. According to Traveler, problems with the tennis program came to light when it was disclosed that Brad V ams, Australian scholarship tennis player and football walk-on was being withheld from competition because of problems with his high school transcript.

Frank Broyles, UA athletic director, announced Nov. 7 that Williams was no longer a student at the University. The Arkansas Traveler reported Nov. 9 that Williams' high school transcript was not valid and that Williams may not have finished high school. An unnamed source had told the Traveler that William's mother had substituted his mother's transcript when one was requested for Brad.

The Traveler reported on Nov. 2 that the UA athletic department had sent a partial report on the Brad Williams case to the NCAA. Williams played in four football games during the fall season. NCAA required teams to forfeit games in which ineligible players had participated.

UA President Ray Thornton commented on proposed legislation to require the University to play football with Arkansas State University in the Dec. 10 Arkansas Gazette. He said "Scheduling football games is the proper role for the campus athletic director."

Scholarships,

Endowments, Gifts,

and Donations

The establishment of the Elizabeth Fulbright Endowed fund to send one UA student per year to study abroad was announced Sept. 21 during the opening of a symposium celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Fulbright Exchange Program

On Oct. 3, it was announced that the Arkansas Science and Technology authority had donated $25,000 for the opening of Genesis, the state's first business incubator, at Engineering South. State colleges and universities apply for grants to establish facilities for incubator centers. Businesses sign a two-year lease for the space and the services of university experts.

It was announced on Dec. 3, that American Telephone and Telegraph Co. had donated more than $1.1 million worth of AT&T computers for use in the College of Engineering at Fayetteville and in the mathematical sciences department at Pine Bluff. Approximate value of the gift to each campus was $920,000 to Fayetteville and $230,000 to UAPB.

Oct. 8, it was announced that Melvyn L. Bell, the chairman of the board of Ensco, Inc. of Little Rock, had donated $8 million to the Engineering Excellence Campaign. This gift was the largest private donation in the University's history. The Board of Trustees approved a resolution naming the building the Bell Engineering Center of Arkansas in honor of Bell's parents, Owen and Hildur Bell of Fort Smith. The Center's main auditorium was named the George W. Combs Engineering Auditorium in honor of the father of George D. Combs, vice president of engineering at Ensco and former associate professor in the College of Engineering.

Crimewave

A fake bomb was found in an upright piano in room 233 of the Fine Arts Music Annex Sept. 16 by James Greeson, a UA student. According to a report in the Traveler, Greeson noticed that the piano keys weren't working properly and found a 12-volt battery, several wires, two short metal cylinders and a possible home-made detonator inside the piano. DPS officers, a physical plant safety officer and the Fayetteville Fire Marshal inspected the device and called Sgt. John Miller, an explosive expert with the Fort Smith Police, who defused the device. The Music Annex was evacuated from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Miller said although the fake bomb was realistic, it was not explosive.

Mitchell D. Able, a 22-year-old architecture student from Germantown, Tenn. died of a .22 caliber gunshot wound between 10 and 11 p.m. Sept. 21.

In November, ABC's "20/20" news show telecast the story of what may be the biggest hit-man squad in America's history. Doug Norwood, a UA law student featured in the show, was a key witness in the case. In 1985, more than eight attempts were made on Norwood's life. According to the Traveler on Jan. 20, 1986 Norwood noticed a car following him as he drove to campus. He parked and called DPS. John Herring, a criminal investigator for DPS, and Lt. Jim Swearingen, head of DPS operations, got into an unmarked car and followed the car Norwood described. At the Agricultural Park, they arrested Michael Wayne Jackson. Jackson's car contained a MAC-11 with a silencer and an AR-15 machine gun. Nationwide 17 people have been indicted in hitman crimes in over 19 states involving about 15 victims.

On Nov. 12, The Arkansas Traveler reported that DPS was searching for a man who had attempted to sexually assault two women on campus. The first attempt occurred at 8:45 p.m. Sept. 11 in the big parking lot between Futrell Hall and the animal science building. The second attempt occurred at 3 a.m. Nov. 2 in the area of Mullins Library.

One person was arrested and 50 others were identified as illegally using Aerofone's long-distance telephone service. According to the Dec. 10 Arkansas Traveler, Bill Carter, general manager of Aerofone said the involvement in the illegal use of his company's service was widespread, including "the entire spectrum of the entire student body, from freshmen to seniors, and in every department." Aerofone made an offer to anyone coming forth and making full restitution that charges would not be filed against them. The Traveler reported on Dec. 12 that almost all of the more than 50 persons had offered to make restitution.

Then and Now

Alcohol

On September 2, the Fayetteville Board of Directors passed a law making it illegal for persons under the age of 21 to attempt to purchase alcohol.

This new law, which went into effect Sept. 3, has caused quite a stir among students, bar and liquor store owners and parents.

Nobody is quite sure how this new law is going to be enforced. The only thing you can count on is the fact that those prosecuted may have to pay $100 to $500 for the first offense and twice that amount if prosecuted again.

That's a lot of money! Partying with alcohol could become very expensive for about 50 percent of the students on this campus.

The problem with this ordinance is the part about detaining a minor until the police get to the scene. How exactly does a bar or liquor store go about holding an underaged person until the cops come?

Maybe things would go like this: BAR OWNER: "Sorry kid, but your ID doesn't look genuine to me. Would you wait here for the police to come and arrest you. Would you like a soda or a glass of milk or something?" MINOR: "Oh gee sir, I didn't mean to order alcohol. I promise to wait right here on this very spot." Fiction. Remember the good times?

Alcohol

The Fayetteville City Board Tuesday unanimously approved an amendment to the recently-passed alcohol ordinance, requiring liquor stores to post a notice on each drive-in window warning minors they could face charges for attempting to buy alcohol.

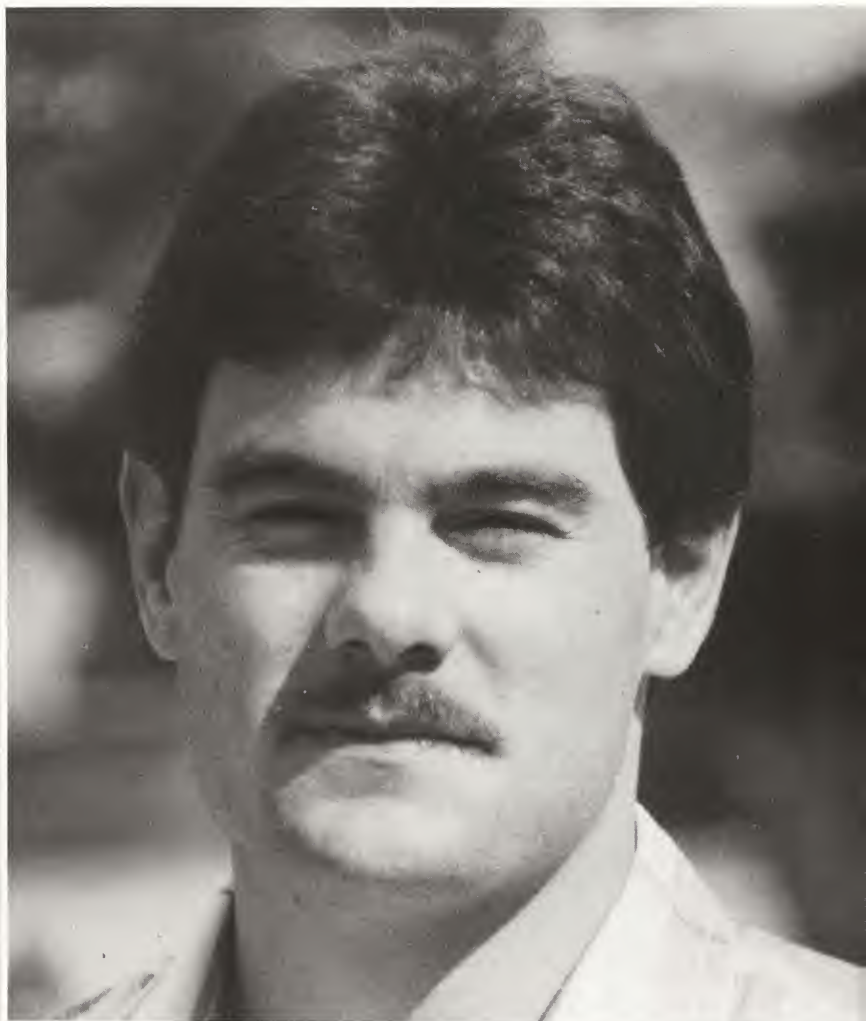

The law says that minors who attempt to purchase alcohol can be detained by store operators and face a fine of $100 to $500.

The ordinance, which went into effect October 10, 1986, originally required owners to place at least one sign in a "conspicuous" location on store premises.

"That's where I think a lot of package sales would take place," he said. "I think a lot of people would risk driving up and pulling out a fake ID."

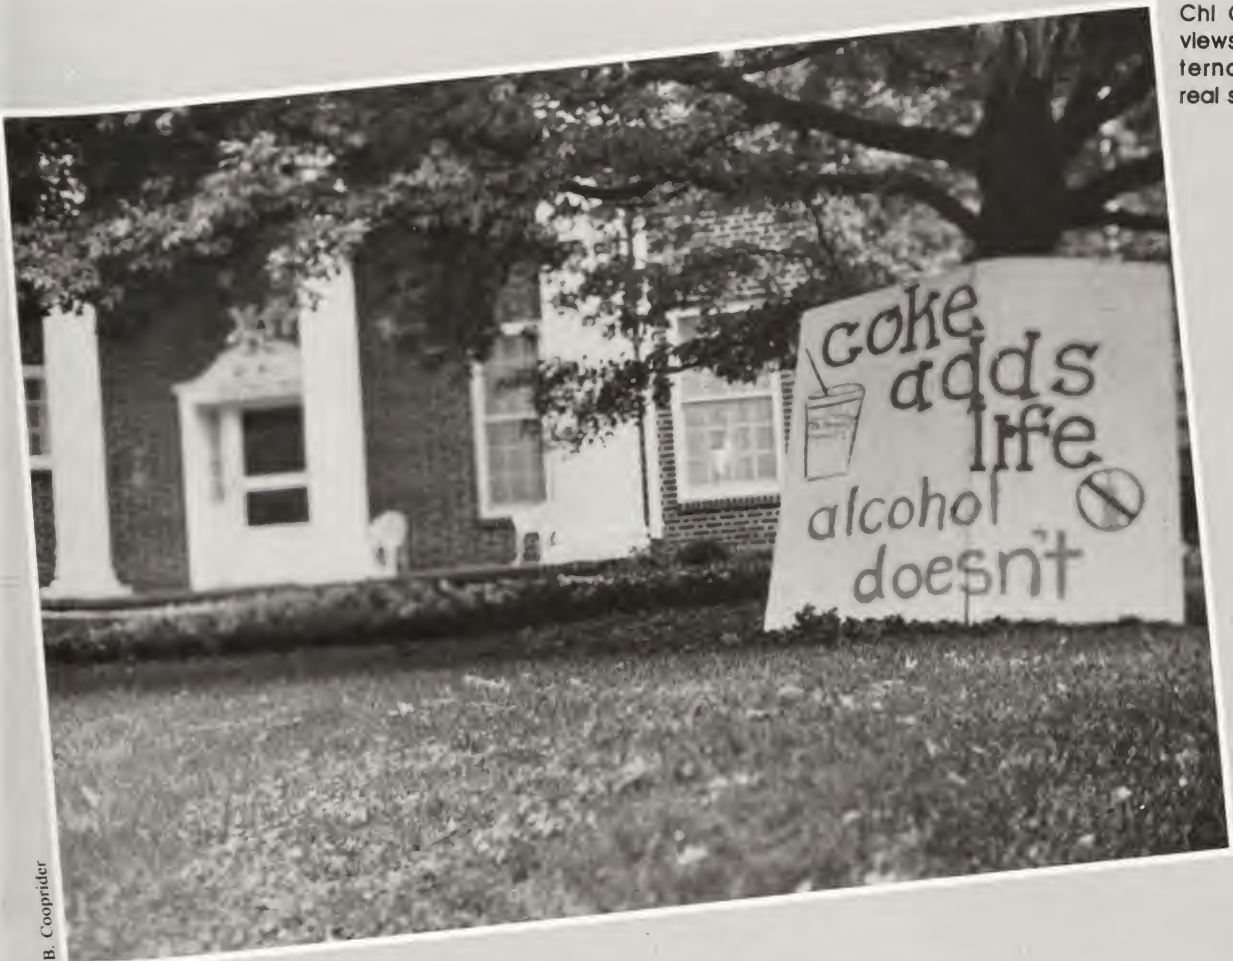

Bumpass said the notices would probably deter a lot of minors not aware of the ordinance.

Concerts

Fall

John Fogerty, touring for the first time in 15 years, showed Fayetteville November 15 that he is not only an exceptional song writer but an extraordinary solo performer as well.

Fogerty gave the crowd something they seldom see in Barnhill Arena: a friendly, open performance by a human being rather than the standard, thumb-up-the-nose attitudes of a rock star. As an artist, he gave the viewers an assortment of facial expressions, body antics, jokes and stories to offset the distance between the crowd and Fogerty the rocker.

Fogerty paced the stage from left to right, constantly watching the crowd as he played his own guitar leads. He stopped only to deliver the raw and powerful Fogerty sound that he has been legendary for since the days of Creedence Clearwater Revival.

The albums Centerfields, 1984, and Eye of the Zombi, 1986, have yielded Fogerty fresh concert material as well as several top hits that reveal his innovative, new approach to rock'n'roll.

John Fogerty, the professional musician with his unique, wild, rowdy rustic vocals and his unusual interest in reaching his audience, has a live show that cannot be outdone by any other in the business.

The skies cleared over Fayetteville Oct 11 afternoon while old hippies, young hippies, a few teeny boppers, and some preppies, even yuppies and a lot of plain Janes started filling Barnhill Arena to await Steve Winwood.

Steve Winwood on his first American tour in 12 years opened his Back in the High Life '86 show with a slowed-down rendition of his classic Traffic hit "The Low Spark of High-Heeled Boys."

With an eight-piece band Winwood seemed to surprise the audience with his superb vocal and his constant switches between piano, lead guitar, mandolin and synthesizer.

"It's good to be back," Winwood said, walking back on stage. "It's good to be in Fayetteville, and I dedicate this song to ya'll because you put me back in the high life."

Performers

Fall

As a part of the 1986-87 Fine Arts Concert Series sponsored by the UA music department, Linn Maxwell, the internationally acclaimed mezzosoprano, performed at the UA Fine Arts Concert Hall on September 28. Maxwell has performed worldwide with orchestras and in operas. Her career began in Europe, where she spent two seasons at the Stadtische Buhnen in Essen, West Germany. She sang major operatic roles in France and the Neatherlands. She then returned to the United States, and the State Department sponsored her on three tours to South America. While there, she taught classes, gave recitals, and performed with National Symphony Orchestra of Peru and the Bogota Philharmonic Orchestra.

Christmas came early to the University when Aurora—a baroque ensemble—performed Nov. 16 at the UA Fine Arts Concert Hall.

The concert, entitled “An Early Christmas,” featured music by composers such as Werner, Bach and handle and was performed on original instruments from the 17th and 18th centuries.

The ensemble has been featured on Manhattan Cable Television and New Jersey Nightly News, and has collaborated with noted soloists like Stanley Ritchie, a violinist, and Jeffrey Dooley, a countertenor.

Later the same month, Gary Foster performed with the UA Jazz Band in the Union Ballroom on November 25. Foster, a nationally known jazz artist and woodwin clinician, lives in Los Angeles where he is a freelance player and teacher. He conducts the studio jazz ensemble at Pasadena City College and is currently heard as a member of the television orchestras for “Dynasty,” “Falcon Crest,” “Fall Guy,” “Hotel,” “Scarecrow and Mrs. King,” “Mike Hammer,” “Paper Chase,” and others.

Plays

Neil Simon's acclaimed comedy "Brighton Beach Memoirs" opened the 1986-87 UA Theatre season with performances at 8 p.m. Oct. 3-4 and 8-11.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" is the first in a trilogy of plays about growing up in New York by Simon, who is famous for such works as "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple."

Amy Gamber, the publicity coordinator for the UA Theatre, said the play is Simon's best. "It's hysterical, so funny," she said.

The UA Theater's performance of "Evita" offered an almost excellent portrayal of Eva Peron, the heroine and the wife of Argentine President Juan Peron, played by Vickie Hillird with spunk and the strongest vocals of the entire cast.

The musical, originally written as an opera by Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice, was tragically hampered throughout both acts by a failing sound system, and a 20-piece orchestra that covered up entire parts of dialogue.

The scenic design and technical direction of R. H. Roggenkamp Jr., and the lighting design of D. Andrew Gibbs blended so well that the screen switches, done by the actors, seemed to disappear and materialize out of the dark background very subtly. So impressive was this method that the reviewer forgot that the liquor bottles or that the children weren't using real dice when they shot craps.

Another play was surrounded by controversy when it was first performed in its native country and was performed at UA Theater. The play entitled "Playboy of the Western World" was performed by UA Theatre on December 5-6 and 10-13.

Written by Irish playwright John M. Synge, the play caused riots in 1907 because of the way it portrays Irish women and because the hero of the story, Christopher Mahon, killed his father.

Dinosaur Days

Dinosaur Days was hosted by the University Museum. The Museum hosted numerous talks and presentations on dinosaurs—ranging from the “Dinosaur Debut” to the “Dinosaur Story Hour.” The exhibit ran from September 27 thru November 9, 1986.

Thousands of people looking for a little summer in January, filled the union Saturday night for Redeye, "What a Beach." About 3,700 people attended Redeye this year, up by 300 from last year. Larry Butler, Union Programs coordinator said.

The lingerie show, sponsored by Secrets Intimate Apparel, was one of the most popular events. The UA Theatre was packed for both shows with a predominantly male crowd. Models displayed their wares in lingerie ranging from long, black gowns with robes to short, red teddies.

The master of ceremonies encouraged the models by shouting, "Show'em what you've got, Babe," and encouraged the audience by giving the models' measurements. The audience in turn shouted "Take it off," as some threw money onto the stage.

Hypnotist James Mapes amazed a standing room only crowd in the ballroom. Mapes performed a technique on the audience so that about 50 persons had their hands stuck together and couldn't separate them until he commanded. Of those, about 35 persons remained on stage to be put in a deep sleep.

"I never felt asleep, but I felt complete relaxation. It was neat," Charles Goodman, one of the hypnotized, said.

Comedian Alex Cole also played to an SRO crowd in the ballroom. The audience screamed with laughter as Cole told of his childhood and how he is not potty-training his son.

Another popular attraction was the WATS line, where people could make free three-minute phone calls. Some of the calls were made to Chilcage, Puryear, Tenn., Hot Springs and Florida State University. One man stood in a line to call his sister here in Fayetteville.

Parking and Transit Problems

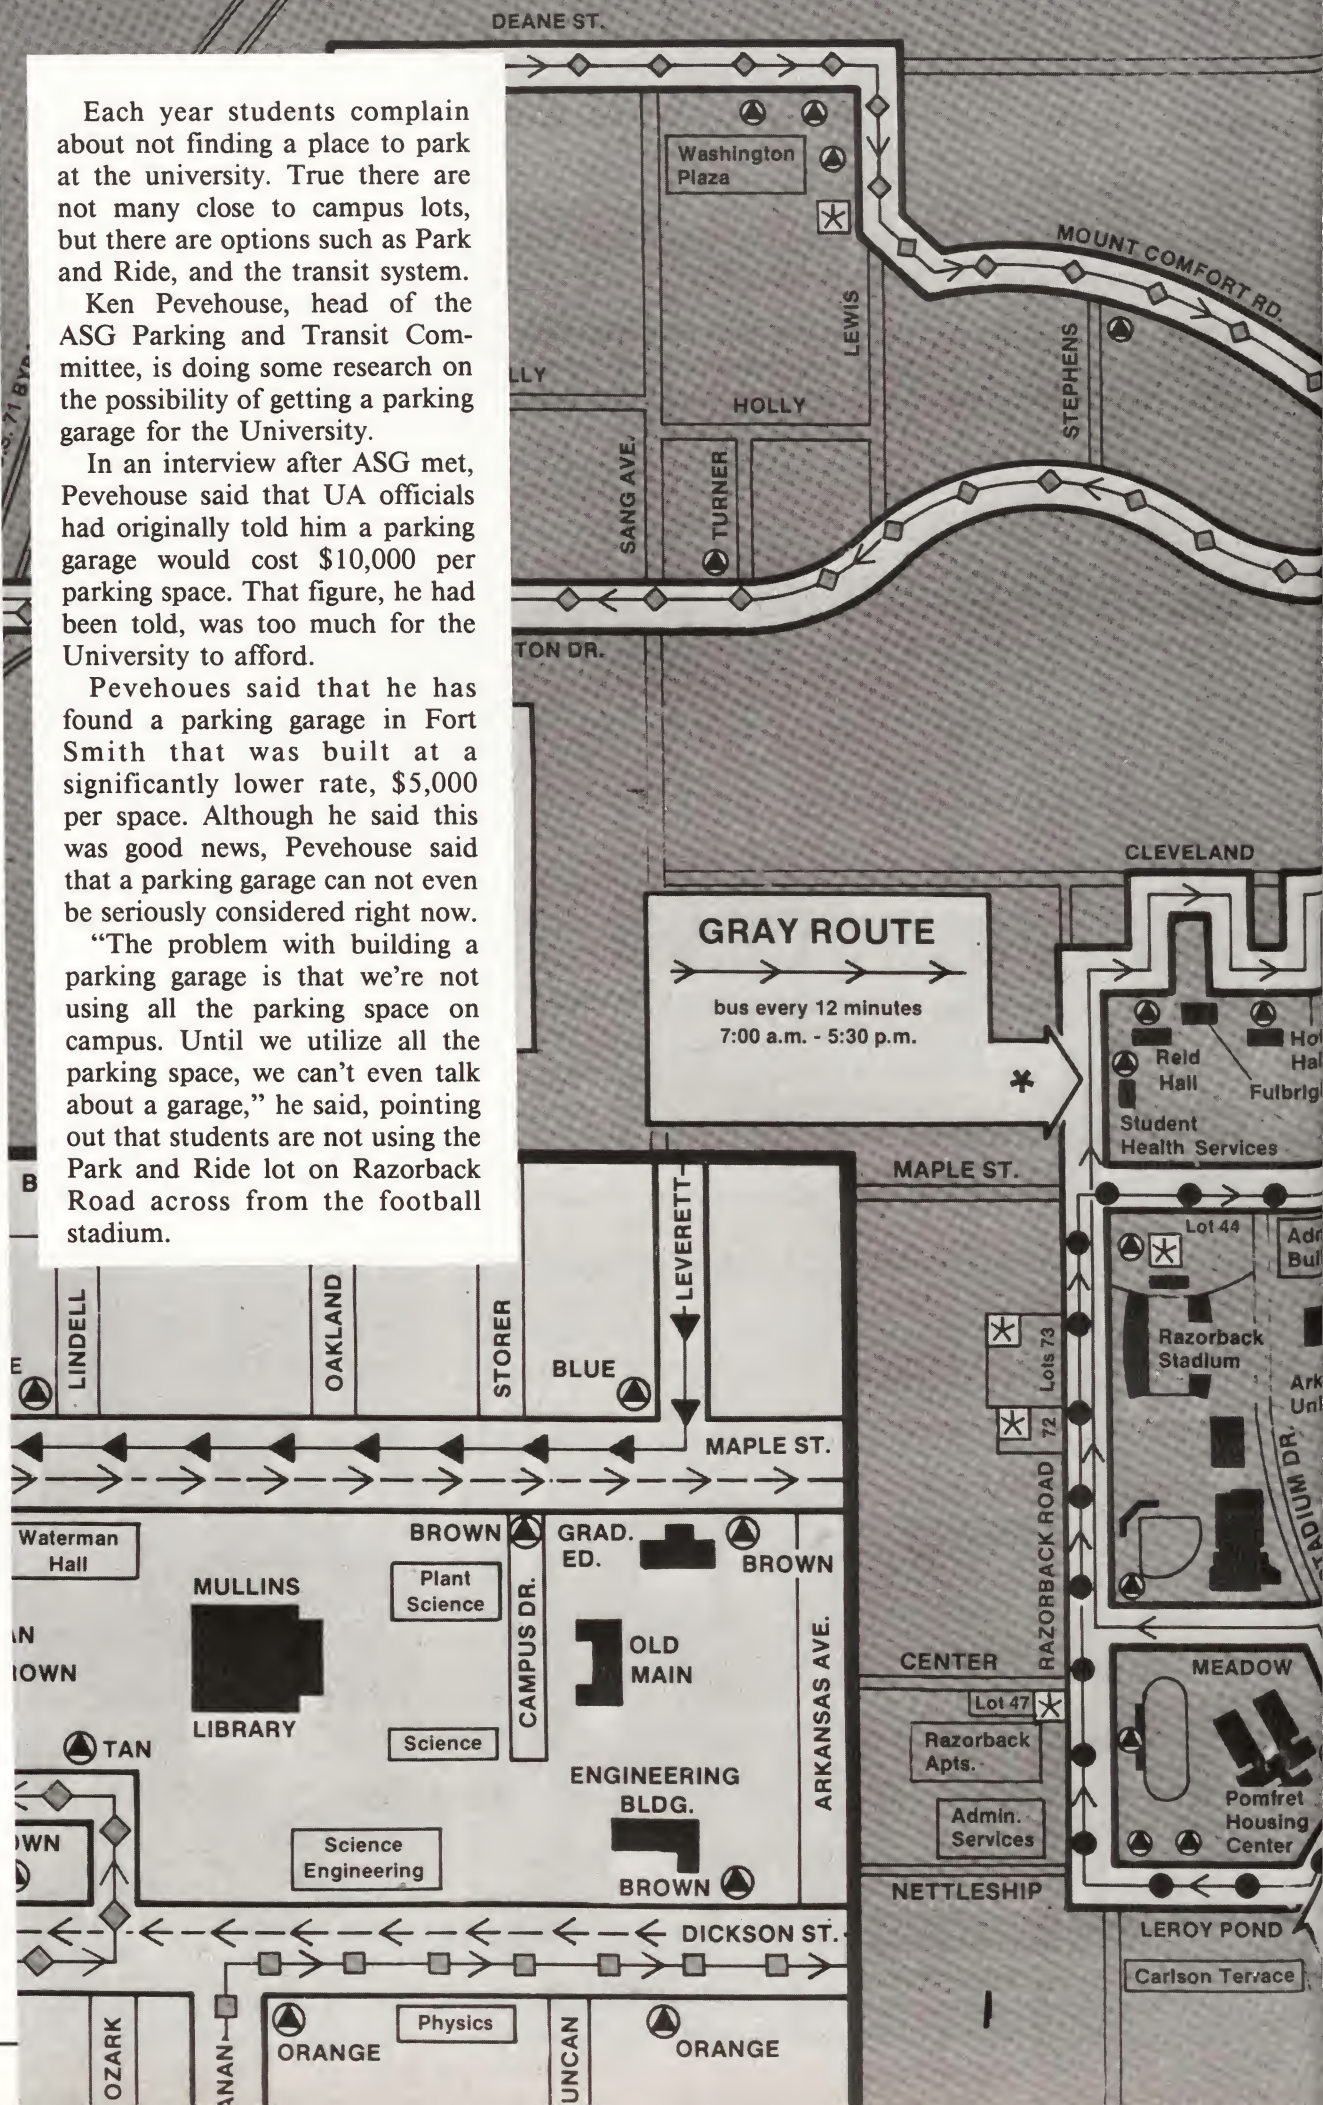

Each year students complain about not finding a place to park at the university. True there are not many close to campus lots, but there are options such as Park and Ride, and the transit system.

Ken Pevehouse, head of the ASG Parking and Transit Committee, is doing some research on the possibility of getting a parking garage for the University.

In an interview after ASG met, Pevehouse said that UA officials had originally told him a parking garage would cost $10,000 per parking space. That figure, he had been told, was too much for the University to afford.

Pevehouse said that he has found a parking garage in Fort Smith that was built at a significantly lower rate, $5,000 per space. Although he said this was good news, Pevehouse said that a parking garage can not even be seriously considered right now.

"The problem with building a parking garage is that we're not using all the parking space on campus. Until we utilize all the parking space, we can't even talk about a garage," he said, pointing out that students are not using the Park and Ride lot on Razorback Road across from the football stadium.

Sigma Nu fraternity won the overall trophy for the second year in a row at Sigma Phi Epsilon's 10th annual "Fight Nite."

Fite Nite, which was held at the Washington County Fairgrounds March 5, 6, and 7, benefited the March of Dimes. The overall winner is determined by a point system with first place receiving three points, second place receiving two points and third place receiving one point, said Robert Cortinez, the president of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

"We have not paid all of the expenses," Cortinez said, "but we expect to have raised about $10,000 to $12,000."

The winners of the six divisions are:

- Featherweight division: Garret Chambers of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

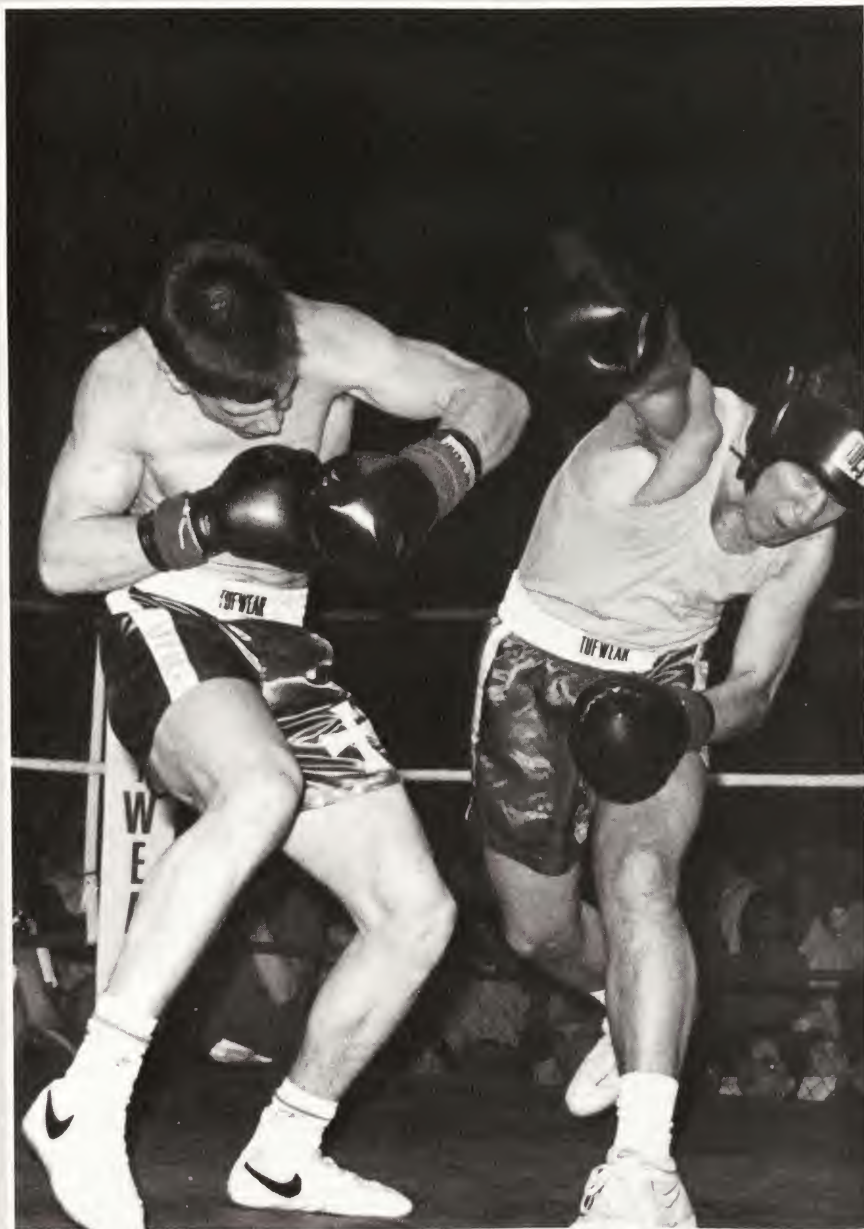

- Flyweight division: Jimmy Rapert of Sigma Chi.

- Lightweight division: Pat Barrow of Sigma Chi.

- Middleweight division: Don Beineman of Sigma Nu.

- Light heavyweight division: Marshall Foreman of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

- Heavyweight division: Mike Ward, an independent.

The 1988 spring concerts were performed by three groups—Hank Williams Jr., Eddie Money, and Kool and the Gang.

Hank played his standards like “Whiskey Bent and Hell Bound,” “Old Habits,” “The Promised Land,” “Dixie On My Mind,” “Superman,” “This Ain’t Dallas,” “Country Boy,” “Mind Your Own Business,” and “I Like Girls.”

Eddie Money played for over two hours and made three encore appearances. Dressed in black jeans, a black tank top, black leather boots, and a white jacket, Money opened the concert with “Two Tickets to Paradise,” and the crowd was on its feet. His third song, which got the crowd yelling and clapping, was his latest single, “Endless Nights.”

Money stopped playing after an hour, but the crowd wanted more. They yelled and screamed, and Money and his band came back out.

He opened the first encore with “Take Me Home Tonight,” the first single off his new album. He then followed with “Shakin’ ” which really got the crowd dancing and clapping. During this song, he introduced his band, and the crowd was so involved that several girls threw their bras on stage.

Kool and the Gang also appeared at Barnhill this spring. With a crowd of about 4,800, the Gang were a hit.

Main

The historic symbol of Old Main is so strongly embedded in the hearts of Arkansans that many who never attended the University are making donations to the building's restoration.

One East Arkansas resident donated $2,000 simply because she remembers trips to Fayetteville as a child when she and her cousins competed to be the first to spot Old Main's towers.

Dorine B. Deacon of Jonesboro sent her check to the Campaign to Restore Old Main, along with a letter telling of the game she and her cousins played when the family travelled from Fort Smith to visit her mother's brother, W.S. Campell. Campell was secretary of the Fayetteville Chamber of Commerce from 1916 to 1918. Deacon's parents, Bertha Cambell and Joe C. Barrett, met when he was a member of the Class of 1920 at the University.

In a postscript to the letter, Deacon said she knew her mother would be pleased to know of the $2,000 gift, because it would help insure that "her progeny can continue to play that game" of who sees the Old Main towers first.

HOMECOMING QUEEN

HOMECOMING 1986

ROYAL TREATMENT. Making the first of many appearances, Queen Karen is introduced at the pep rally.

While waiting for the game to begin, Karen receives a congratulatory message from Chancellor Daniel Ferritor while her escort Brian Wolfe looks on.

Homecoming '86 was filled with excitement as parents and alumni gathered on campus for the festivities. University Programs spiced up the event by sponsoring the first annual Hogcoming.

Hogcoming included the big pep rally where fans from all over called the Hogs spurring the team on to victory.

At the pep rally, the honorary parents were recognized. Larry and Nikki Lawson of Paragould, parents of Carole and Jay Lawson, were chosen by a committee of UA students, faculty, and staff to represent all parents. As honorary parents, the Lawsons received two football seats in the chancellor's box, and an engraved plaque. They were also honored in the Homecoming parade.

Hogcoming '86 also included a rice eating contest which was won by Byron Shells, a sophomore from Little Rock, and an Hogcoming extravaganza at the Rink where Hogs fans were entertained by the Bill Tillman Band from Dallas.

The Homecoming parade started at 10 a.m. Saturday and featured the marching Razorbacks, local high school bands, floats by student organizations, and several dignitaries including Frank White, former Governor of Arkansas.

* The Homecoming Queen and her court were visible throughout the entire weekend. They made appearances at the Pep rally, the parade and the football game.

The Queen was Karen Mathis from Forrest City. Her court was composed of Carole Lawson, Cindy Thomas, Nikki Avery, and Jona Garner.

Homecoming '86 was a success. The Hogs were victorious over the Rice Owls and the crowd had the best performance of the year, as compared to previous games, in which the behavior in the student section caused a safety hazard for people sitting in the lower stands. Also mother nature played a big part in the success by providing sunshine and warm temperatures the first good weather for a homecoming game in recent years.

Dean Glenn Hardy: College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Research assistant Gary Main runs the filter system for wine. Bacteria is filtered out of the wine using compressed air.

M. Elliott Photo

After serving for 20 years as the Dean of Agriculture and Home Economics, Glenn Hardy will resign after this school year.

"The thing that I'm most proud of is that I've had the ability to hire and retain excellent faculty and help create an atmosphere of freedom in which the faculty could work in order to do teaching and research," Hardy said.

"We respect our students," he said. "The faculty is willing to work closely as advisors." When Hardy first became dean, the facilities of the college were very limited. Since that time, the plant science, and parts of animal sciences, several buildings at the farm and a new poultry facility have been added.

"I have seen the Agricultural College prosper and develop into a department that is providing leadership in the state.

One thing that Hardy has done during his administration is revive some international work in agriculture. The University had a project in Egypt for approximately six years and has active projects in three French-speaking countries.

"These projects will have a far-reaching effect and are for the good of the state of Arkansas," Hardy said. "Mainly, if you are going to run a university, you need to educate people. While some of our faculty were overseas, they learned about an insect that affected rice. Now, this insect is in Arkansas, and we know how to deal with it. If we are going to truly educate, we have to have some knowledge of international agriculture. This can best be brought about by faculty who have some knowledge and experience."

Hardy received his undergraduate degree in chemistry in 1944 from Pittsburg State University in Pittsburg, Kansas. In 1952, he earned his master's degree in education from the same university, and he received his Ph.D. in agronomy/soils in 1957 from Kansas State.

Hardy taught for one year with the Extension Service at Kansas State University prior to coming to Arkansas. He also taught at a Junior College in Chanute, Kansas for five years and one year at Colley Junior College in Fort Scott, Kansas.

Hardy was in charge of the state salt-testing program, and he has served on many committees. He was chairman of a committee that recommended the use of the ACT for placement. He also served on committees that established tenure and hiring policies and procedures for the faculty; he advocated and requested departments to develop graduate student handbooks, developed orientation class for freshmen in the present form, and he represented the faculty in construction of the Plant Sciences Building.

Hardy was born in Baxter Springs, Kansas and attended high school in Riverton, Kansas. He also served in the Navy from 1943-46.

He married Patricia Mather in 1952. She preceded him in death in 1984. They had two sons, Scott and Michael. He remarried in 1986.

After retirement, Hardy will stay on as faculty and work on projects such as scholarships recruiting and the graduate program.

Architecture Dean C. Murray Smart and student Diane Wallace look over the model of a building.

J. Gaston Photo

C. Murray Smart: Dean of Architecture

The Professional program in Architecture began in 1946 and has been accredited by the National Architectural Accrediting Board since 1956. In 1974 the School of Architecture was established as a separate college from Arts and Sciences.

Clifton Murray Smart, Jr., Dean of Architecture, said that the school is considered one of the better schools because of its reputation. He said that students that have graduated from the University with a major in Architecture feel that they have received a quality education.

"People who have gone to work have returned to tell us that they didn't realize how good their education was until they worked with people who had graduated from other schools," Dean Smart said.

This year, the School of Architecture received the results from last year's accreditation evaluation. Smart said the evaluation said students had more confidence, problems dividing the faculty (different philosophies) had been resolved, and students said their greatest assets were the faculty members.

Smart said the largest retrospective exhibit of the students' work was displayed this year. He said works from the past five years were displayed in the gallery.

Another advantage this year's students enjoyed was the utilization of the computer lab. 1987 was the first year students were able to use the computers.

Computer usage will help students adapt to larger firms when they graduate, but one of the most useful projects students do is build charettes. Charettes are mock presentations of projects presented to professors much like an architect would present a project to a client.

Like other colleges on campus, the School of Architecture has suffered from budget cuts. Smart said that over the past two years that college has lost about 11 percent of its funding.

"It's very difficult for a small school to cut back," he said.

Smart said everytime the faculty was reduced, the student body must be reduced to follow guidelines given to the School by the accreditation team.

Smart said the college followed the guidelines to give students the best education possible. The College has many students who win awards. This year four students won scholarships from the National American Institute of Architecture Foundation based on overall accomplishments such as leadership and grade point averages.

This year the College has revised its landscape architecture sequence in preparation for an accreditation visit scheduled for 1989.

The College of Arts and Sciences offers over 40 majors ranging from Anthropology to Zoology.

Dean John C. Guilds, who received his Ph.D. from Duke University, has been dean of the College of Arts and Sciences since 1979.

Guilds said he was proud that the plans for the Walton Fine Arts Center to be built in Fayetteville had been completed. The completion of the center will benefit drama students as well students in other majors.

Two symposiums highlighted the year by bringing such speakers as Stephen Flanagan, the Executive director of the Center for Science and International affairs at Harvard University; Evan Thomas, the Washington Bureau Chief of Newsweek magazine and many others.

The Fulbright Institute

presented a symposium of Europe and the United States forty years after the Truman Doctrine and the Marshal Plan. The Sumposium held in April explored different views from different speakers of what foreign policies were and how they affect today's policy plans.

The Fulbright Symposium in September celebrated the 40th Anniversary of the J. William Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences at the University. The College made a video tape of the anniversary symposium that was shown at the Smithsonian Institute. Students are welcome to borrow a copy of the video tape.

The Arkansas Educational Television Network recommended Steve Channing of North Carolina to produce the film. Guilds said Channing did an excellent job on the project.

Excelece is always

This year five Sturgis Fellowships were awarded to students in the College. The freshman who won the awards, based on academic and extra curricular activities in high school, will receive $10,000 each year for four years. The Sturgis Fellowships were begun in the fall of 1986 by Roy and Christine Sturgis.

As the end of the spring semester neared, the College received a 16 page magazine, the Leitgeist, written by journalism students in Patsy Watkins' class. The Leitgeist (meaning the spirit of the age; a trend of thought and feeling characteristic of an age or period) describes the life of arts and sciences students ranging from the first letter sent home by a freshman to looking for a job after graduation.

The College of Business Administration completed a computer lab this spring. About half of the Business Administration students use the computers. The lab was funded prior to budget cuts.

Also held this spring was the Academic Festival where Sen. Dale Bumbers told about 200 people that motivation was necessary if the United States is to compete with other countries.

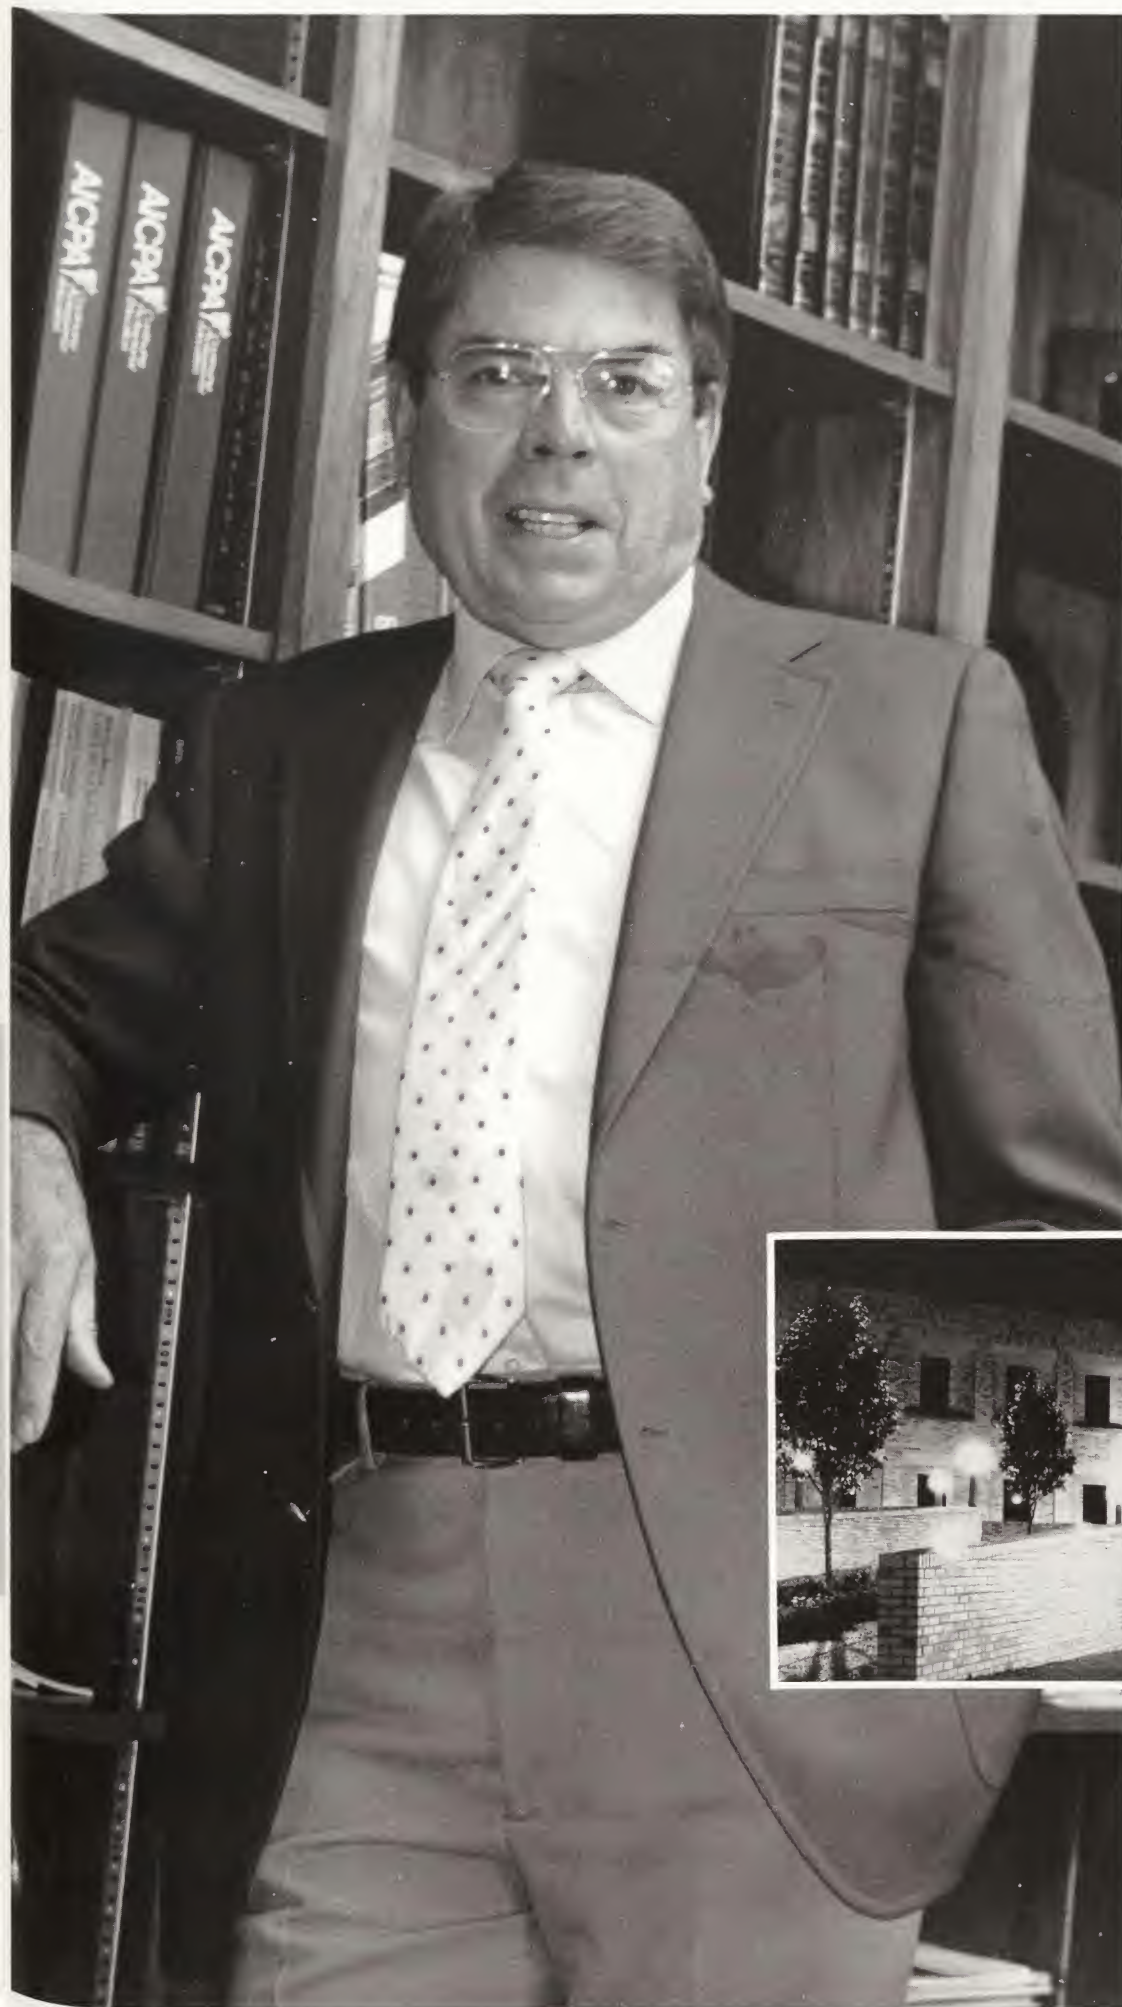

Curtis Bradbury, President of Worthen Bank & Trust Co. in Little Rock; Burton E. Stacy, President of the Bank of Bentonville; William H. Bowen, Chairman and CEO of First Commercial Bank of Little Rock and many other leading business men spoke at the Academic Festival.

Lloyd Seaton, Jr., Dean of the College of Business Administration, said the college has programs designed to help small businesses. He said that faculty members received experience that they passed on to their students. These programs also provided contacts for graduates.

The College in conjunction with the Legislative Weekend activities held a symposium in October on an Economic Outlook Forum: 1987 and ahead.

Tracy Murray, a Phillips Petroleum company Distinguished Professor of International Economics and Business and Chairman of the Department of Economics at the University and many others spoke at the symposium.

Satellite Video Instruction, A Possibility

Donnie M. Detton is serving as the Dean of Continuing Education, which is the 13th largest correspondence school in the nation.

Dutton became the dean of continuing education during the 1981-82 school year. Before that, he was a professor of adult education.

"The Continuing Education Center is the public service arm of the University," Dutton said. "Our primary goal is to take the expertise that exists on the Fayetteville campus and make it available to the citizens of Arkansas."

Dutton said that this is done by offering off-campus classes, correspondence courses, conferences and seminars. He also said that last year, 356 conferences were held with 37,675 participants.

Besides providing education, the Continuing Education Center also provides all of the media services for the University.

"We have a very complex operation; We can do anything as simple as turning on a projector to something as complex as sending up a program in a satellite and bringing it down all over the world," Dutton said.

Dutton said that now the center is trying to pursue satellite-video instruction. "We are looking at this as a possibility," he said.

Dutton received his bachelor of science in agricultural education in 1955 from North Carolina State University, and he received his masters in agricultural education in 1961 from the same school. In 1967, he obtained his Ph.D. in adult and continuing education from Florida State University.

He has been a high school teacher, co-operative extension agent, public health educator and administrator, and a university professor and administrator.

Dutton was appointed by former President Carter to a national advisory council on adult education. He also served in the same position under President Reagan. He has also represented the United States internationally.

Dutton has received nine awards for professional contributions, and he is listed in Personalities of the South, the Dictionary of Leaders in Education and Who's Who in the Southwest.

The College of Education is undergoing an reorganizational change and is being headed by John D. Pulliam.

"We are undergoing a college-wide reorganization," Pulliam said. "We have a task force that is making plans for the reorganization in order to better meet the mission of the College and to simplify the organization."

The College is also involved in two different projects. One of the projects is the Holmes Group. It is a consortium of education deans and chief academic officers from major research universities. One thing that the Holmes Group is looking into now is the possibility of a five-year teacher education program which would significantly alter teacher education.

The other project is the Goodlad Project which is a school-university partnership with local schools. The project, funded through the Rockefeller Foundation, creates demo schools and tries to strengthen the curriculum of public schools and teacher education.

Pulliam became dean in 1985. Prior to that, he was the dean of the School of Education at the University of Montana. From 1968-1982, he was on staff at the University of Oklahoma where he was a professor of history and philosophy of education. While at Oklahoma, he also chaired the Social Foundations of Education--a budget and evaluation committee. Pulliam was also a professor at the Universities of Texas and Illinois. He has served as a superintendent of public schools in St. Joseph, Illinois.

Pulliam received his bachelor of arts in history (major) and political geography (minor) in 1953 from the University of Illinois. In 1960, he received his master of science in education from the same school in educational administration and educational theory. He obtained his Ed.D in history and philosophy of education and curriculum from the University of Illinois in 1965.

Pulliam has contributed to at least seven educational books. He has also written over 20 articles of teaching and education, and he has presented and written over 100 professional speeches and papers. He has also been a member of over 10 professional teachers' organizations.

Pulliam was born in Oak Park, Illinois. He attended Danville High School in Danville, Illinois. He married Wilhela Canaday, and they are the parents of three children.

Student Dan Richardson and other students at Engineering South are working on a new brake system for trucks. The new system uses oil to keep the brakes cool.

The dean of the College of Engineering just moved into a $20 million facility, which has been named the Bell Engineering Center.

Besides moving into a new facility, the Engineering College has continued to recruit excellent students.

"The average ACT of freshmen engineers has increased, and one of our senior industrial engineering students has been named the outstanding senior in industrial engineering in the United States, said Neil M. Schmitt, the dean of the College of Engineering.

Schmitt also said that one of the student technical societies has been named an outstanding chapter in the nation.

The college is also in the process of switching to computer-based engineering, and the education in the classroom will reflect this change.

Schmitt said that the Engineering College has been awarded $8 million in research contract from different government agencies and companies.

"The college has a good reputation," Schmitt said, "and because of this, companies come back year after year to interview our students."

Schmitt received his bachelor degree in electrical engineering from the University in 1963. At the same time, he was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army.

He earned his masters in electrical engineering in 1964 from the University.

In September of 1964, Schmitt entered the U.S. Army Air Defense Artillery Command and served two years of active duty. He was involved with developing counter intelligence measures for communication systems and was honorably discharged with the rank of Captain.

Schmitt joined I.B.M. in Dallas in 1966, and shortly after that he moved to Texas Instruments until 1970 where he was lead engineer in the development of anti-submarine radar systems for the Navy.

Changes have been made by faculty members to improve the curriculum. The faculty revised the tax curriculum and revamped the courses required to enter law school. The entering class of 1988 will be required to take 90 hours instead of the 84 hours that are now required. The law college will also place greater emphasis in constitutional law.

James H. White assumed the position of acting dean of the Graduate School in July after serving 13 years as the associate dean, replacing James Jackson Hudson who had been dean since 1973.

"I enjoy working with students and administration and teaching," White said.

White said that now there are 70 masters programs including a master of fine arts, 19 doctoral of philosophy programs on campus, one doctoral of education program, and six doctoratal programs at the medical science campus.

"In 1952, the first doctoral degrees were awarded. Last year, 917 graduate degrees were conferred: 776 masters degrees, 30 doctorate of education degrees, 91 doctoral of philosophy degrees, 18 educational specialist degrees, and two associate in philosophy degrees," White said.

White joined the University staff in 1954 as an assistant professor of agricultural economics. In 1973, he was appointed associate dean of the Graduate School.

He received his bachelor and masters degrees from the University. In 1953-54, he attended the University of Illinois as a university fellow, and he completed the course and language requirements for the doctor of philosophy degree in agricultural economics, which he received later from Oklahoma State University.

White has served on several university and college committees. He served on the USDA National Cotton Research Task Force, Southern Farm Management Research Committee, and he was the chairman and co-ordinator

The mission of the Air Force R.O.T.C. at the University was to recruit, train and commission new officers into the U.S. Air Force. Cadets were provided valuable leadership experience and responsibility.

Air Force members had many activities to choose from in belonging to this group. Intramural teams, field trips to various Air Force bases, Arnold Air Society and trips to Arkansas high school for recruitment purposes were some of the duties required of Cadets.

Also, they cleaned up Razorback Stadium after games and sponsored the Annual Razorback Run.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

ALPHA RHO CHI

Members of Alpha Chi Sigma formed a social group with a primary interest in chemistry. Professional speakers were part of the benefits members received at meetings.

The group gave out Merit Badges to local Boy Scout chapters. Also, the yearly fund raised by the members were donated to the Chemistry Department and the Chemical Engineering Department.

Alpha Rho Chi bridged the gap between students and professionals. Members had the chance to enter the professional world before graduating. The group also encouraged camaraderie between the upper and lower class students.

The students participated in an intramural softball team and hosted such events as Archi Week. The Beaux Arts Ball and a T-shirt competition rounded out the weeks activities. Also, the group held fundraisers in dough-nut sales and leaf raking.

The members helped prepare Vol Walker Hall for college events, lectures and official visits.

DATA PROCESSING

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS

The Data Processing Management Association promoted professionalism through regularly scheduled meetings consisting of guest speakers from leading corporations in the computer information field. The group attended plant tours of area computer installations. Also, various seminars and conferences were sponsored by this Data Processing Club.

The American Society of Landscape Architects encouraged a camaraderie between student members and professional practitioners through the state.

The group participated in the annual "Spring Crone Mountain Fling" and other get-togethers where members could relax and discuss class projects. A t-shirt design contest and sale was held as a fund raiser, and professional meetings were attended in Little Rock and Hot Springs. Delegates were also sent to San Francisco and Montreal, Canada for annual national conventions.

CIVIL ENGINEERS

Members of the American Society of Civil Engineers held monthly meetings that included speakers who shared valuable knowledge of their experiences as practicing civil engineers.

Pizza parties, picnics at Beaver Lake and field trips to area construction sites, waste water treatment facilities and Beaver Dam rounded out the year's activities of the group.

Each year the group constructs a concrete canoe for races at regional competitions. This year, the group went to Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kansas.

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERS

The Society of Women Engineers administers approximately thirty scholarships with varying amounts from $200 to $2000 each year.

The Women Engineers co-sponsored a cook-out and hayride with the Computer Science Engineering Club. The group also held pizza parties and held a coffee, hot chocolate and doughnut fundraiser to raise money for representatives to attend the SWE National Conference in June.

A symposium for high school juniors and seniors consisting of panel discussions and tours through the Bell Engineering Center and Old Main was also organized in the spring.

The Institute of Industrial Engineers provided students with the opportunity to interact and relax by sponsoring fall and spring picnics.

The Institute invited numerous guest speakers from industry and also organized plant trips to present an insight into today's technical world. The members had the chance to attend a regional conference where they met with industrial engineers from other colleges.

The yearbook staff one again faced arduous tasks of putting out the current 1987 yearbook and finishing up the 1986. And again it was late. This caused a serious problem for Geoffry Harris and his staff to encourage and stimulate sales of the 1987 and develop faith in the yearbook on a campus that no longer seemed interested in its survival.

In fall, Harris appeared on television and in several state and local newspapers to further his plea for help and support. He had decided to burn excess books that were cluttering up the office in hopes that someone would rush to get their copy "that was never picked up . . . I just forgot." Also, he wished that this action would have gotten the attention of students who were against such a dramatic and drastic activity as burning books. The state and campus grew involved slowly, but never the overwhelming support the staff and its editor had needed. In the end, Harris didn't burn the books, but did hold a funeral procession to symbolically put to rest the dying spirit of the Razorback.

Book sales climbed to nearly 1,000 by the end of Spring and the Board of Publications vowed to assist the new editor and staff with an overhaul of the organization and a renewed interest in its success.

At The Heart of
RAZORBACK SPIRIT

M. Sloate Photo

The members of ABC have the arduous task each year of providing the spirit events to increase excitement for our athletic teams. The club laid the groundwork for students who were motivated towards spirit leadership.

The group sponsored all the Chi Omega Theater pep rallies, Homecoming ceremonies and the parade, plus the ever-popular Texas Week. The group was also very active in raising funds for Old Main.

KAREN MATHIS, Homecoming Queen, appears in the parade, opposite page, and is escorted by ABC President BRIAN WOLFF during the pre-game ceremonies.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

Among the unusual opportunities enjoyed by BSU members was a Spring Break missions trip to New Orleans. Also, a weekly lunch program for commuters and leadership training conferences for BSU Council members were organized.

The group participated in a Jog-A-Rama to help support summer missionaries to the United States and other countries. A slave sale to promote world hunger projects, Christival, a pre-Easter revival and an International Student Fall Conference demonstrated BSU's devotion to spiritual development on campus.

UNION PROGRAMS

Members of the various committees of Union Programs comprised a unique group of 150 dedicated and enthusiastic students.

The activities sponsored by the group were Welcome Back Week, films in the Union Theater and videos in the Union Et Cetera Room, art exhibits in the Union Gallery, the Sack Lunch Symposium series, special events such as the Deales concert, and major Barnhill Arena concerts—Steve Winwood, John Fogerty and Hank Williams Jr.

RedEye was well-attended and was another production of the Union Programs.

The group intended to change their name to University Programs beginning in the fall of 1987.

COLLEGE REPUBLICANS

BETA ALPHA PSI

J. Bailey Photo

Members of the College Republicans kept track of the state and local political situation and attended state-wide conventions to meet with the top ranking officials and politicians.

The group sponsored a fall picnic for handicapped children from the Richardson Center. Also, they organized "shovel parties" for the elderly who needed help to move around during snowy conditions.

In addition, the group invited local and state party officials to campus to speak on issues of interest to students and the community.

Members of Beta Alpha Psi had very diverse interests—not only in the area of business. They helped set up and staff pre-registration for the college of Business Administration. The group also provided accounting services for Life Styles, a group assisting handicapped persons. Each spring, a voluntary income tax assistance program is established for persons needing information.

This organization gave members the chance to meet representatives from local, regional and national accounting firms as well as other persons from the business community.

MORTAR BOARD

GOLDEN KEY

Mortar Board is a national honorary for seniors who have shown outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership and service to their campus.

The members of Mortar Board sponsored the Teacher of the Semester Award for both fall and spring semesters. Also, the group hosted a "smartie party" to recognize freshmen with a GPA of 3.25 or over. This group's philanthropy for the year was Organ Donor Awareness. They, also, helped with student advising during fall registration.

Membership in Golden Key was limited to the top 15% of juniors and seniors by scholastic achievement. The group awarded scholarships to outstanding members, offered career assistance through its annual publication, "Concepts" by listing corporations that recognize Golden Key members.

The group hosted a reception to honor new Golden Key members and an honorary faculty breakfast in the Spring. Golden Key also held a study-a-thon in the fall to raise money for Old Main.

ORDER OF OMEGA

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Order of Omega is the highest senior Greek leadership honorary at the University of Arkansas. It was represented by 2%-3% of the entire Greek population on campus. Acceptance into the Order is a very high honor for those chosen.

Order of Omega members sponsored one major event—the Order of Omega Banquet. This event was basically an awards presentation for the individuals and groups of the Greek system. The Order Banquet was the highlight of the activities of Greek Week.

A diverse representative sample of students who excelled in leadership activities made up Omicron Delta Kappa. This group encouraged and recognized achievement in many phases of campus life: Scholarship, athletics; social, service and religious activities, campus government, journalism, speech and the mass media, creative and performing arts.

Omicron Delta Kappa organized several annual events and focused on leadership seminars.

TAU SIGMA DELTA

TAU BETA PI

Tau Sigma Delta is one of the only architecture honor societies with strict scholastic requirements for its members.

Each fall, the group sponsors an initiation banquet and candle lighting ceremony for the new members. In the spring, members are presented with a certificate. Existing members and faculty are invited to attend all functions. A poster sale was the group's fundraising project.

Tau Beta Pi is a national engineering honor society based on scholastic achievement and exemplary character.

Members participated in picnics, pig roasts, tutoring sessions, EIT review sessions, freshmen orientation sessions, a hunger hike and a banquet honoring the new initiates. These events helped to promote the Engineering College to the students and the community.

ALPHA ZETA

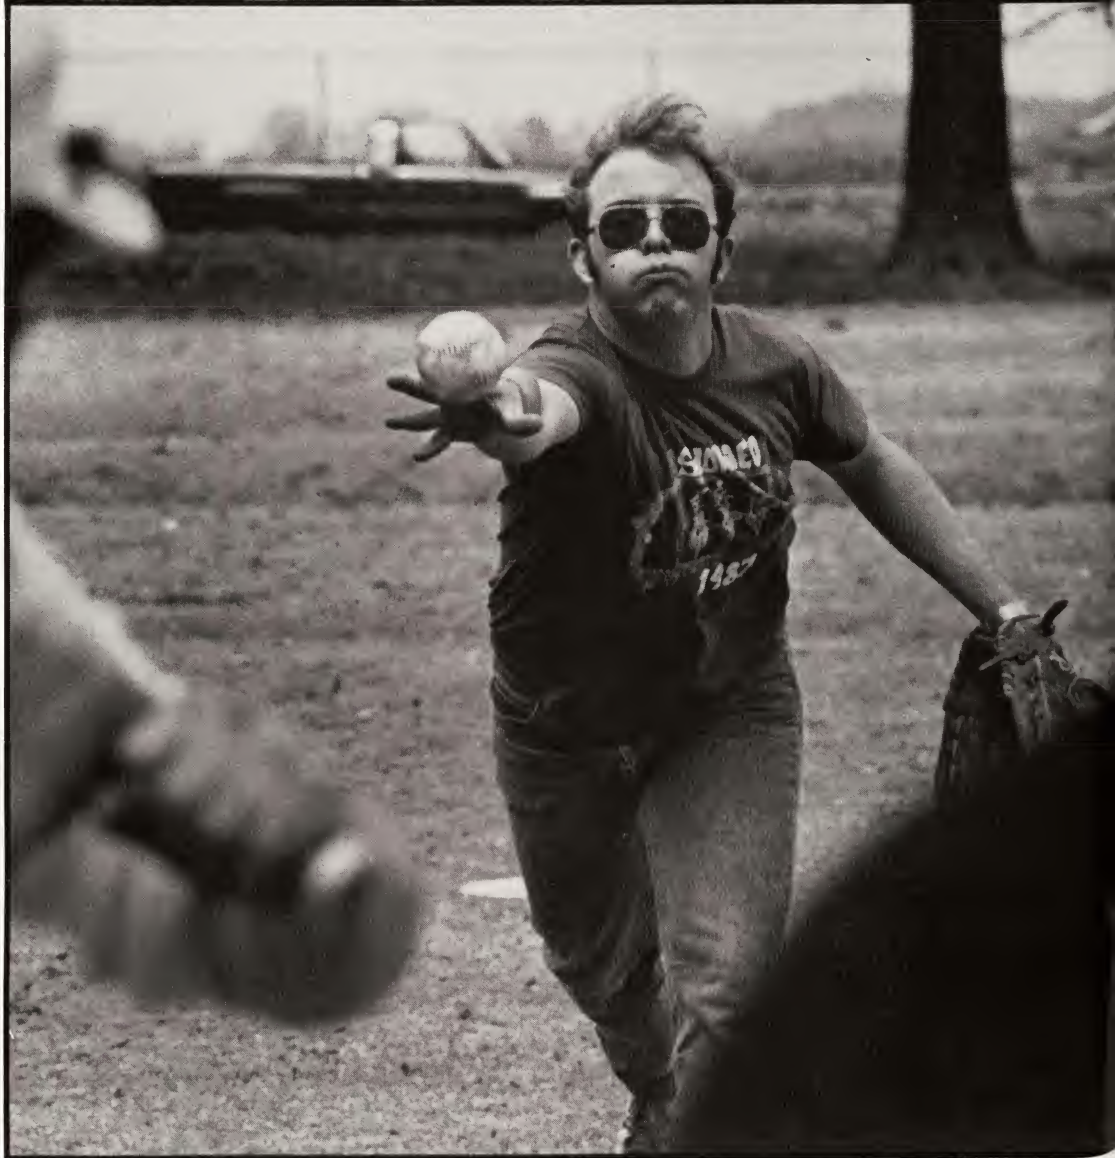

Alpha Zeta is an honorary and professional agriculture fraternity that promotes high standards of scholarship and fellowship among its members. The group rendered much service to the College of Agriculture and promoted the profession of agriculture to its students.

The members of Alpha Zeta sold concessions at all of the Fayetteville football games to raise funds. After the rush activities and initiation in the fall, the group held a steak fry. Other events included a pizza party and guest speakers and participation in AHESA programs. ALPHA ZETA OFFICERS: Dennis Lichti, Chancellor; Lee Rogers, Censor; Virginia Fason, Scribe; Robert Moellers, Treasurer; Terry Swiderski, Chroniclor; Molly Reiber, Sergeant at Arms.

STAND

Students Taking a New Dimension (STAND) provided loans to minority students who found it difficult to purchase books and materials for their courses. Also, the group sponsored minority students to leadership conferences around the state, and makes it their policy to bring in at least one dynamic, minority speaker each academic year.

STAND brought Julian Bond to campus during the fall semester and organized Black History Month programs and events. The members hosted a history fest and gave a reception for the 1986 Homecoming Queen, Karen Mathis. At the Honors Convocation, STAND recognized outstanding student leaders, faculty, staff and students with a GPA of 3.00 and above.

STAND OFFICERS: Anthony Moore, President; Jennifer Smith, 1st Vice-President; Guin Edmond, 2nd Vice-President; Diedre Littleton, Assistant to the President; Judge Taylor, Secretary; Dewayne Bracey, Treasurer; Tracy Rose, Corresponding Secretary.

SPORT CLUB

The Sports Club consisted of the presidents of the ten recreational groups that made up a division of the intramural/recreational sports program.

The ten special interest clubs: the judo club, the martial arts club, men's and women's rugby teams, the table tennis club, the sailing club, the soccer club, the swim club, the volleyball club, and the water ski team.

Members of these groups each have their own equipment and participate in their sport in area competitions or local outings. Several of these groups such as soccer, table tennis, the rugby teams, volleyball and martial arts have competed in regional tournaments that have taken them as far away as Fort Lauderdale and Albuquerque. Others such as the sailing club enjoy yearly spring break excursions to the Bahamas.

MEMBERS OF THE SPORT CLUB: Jeff Taylor, Swim Club; Thomas Klasson, Sailing Club; Keith Mariott, Rugby Club; Mark Westberg, Volleyball Club; Mary Long, Martial Arts Club; Kenneth Brazil, Table Tennis Club; John Taft, Waterski Club.

SKI TEAM

The ski team had approximately twenty members who were all becoming talented three-event skiers in slalom, trick and jump skiing. Monty Mathews, the newest member on the 1987 team, held two world records on the kneeboard.

The team was a member of the American Water Ski Association and the South Central Conference made up of 22 teams from six states.

The UA ski team received a ski jump built by the Architecture department and sponsored by COORS, and also attended sessions at the Ken White Ski School and several tournaments in Texas, Mississippi and Louisiana. The group also hosted the U of A Ski Festival in the spring.

Advisers were Tracy and Mike Finch.

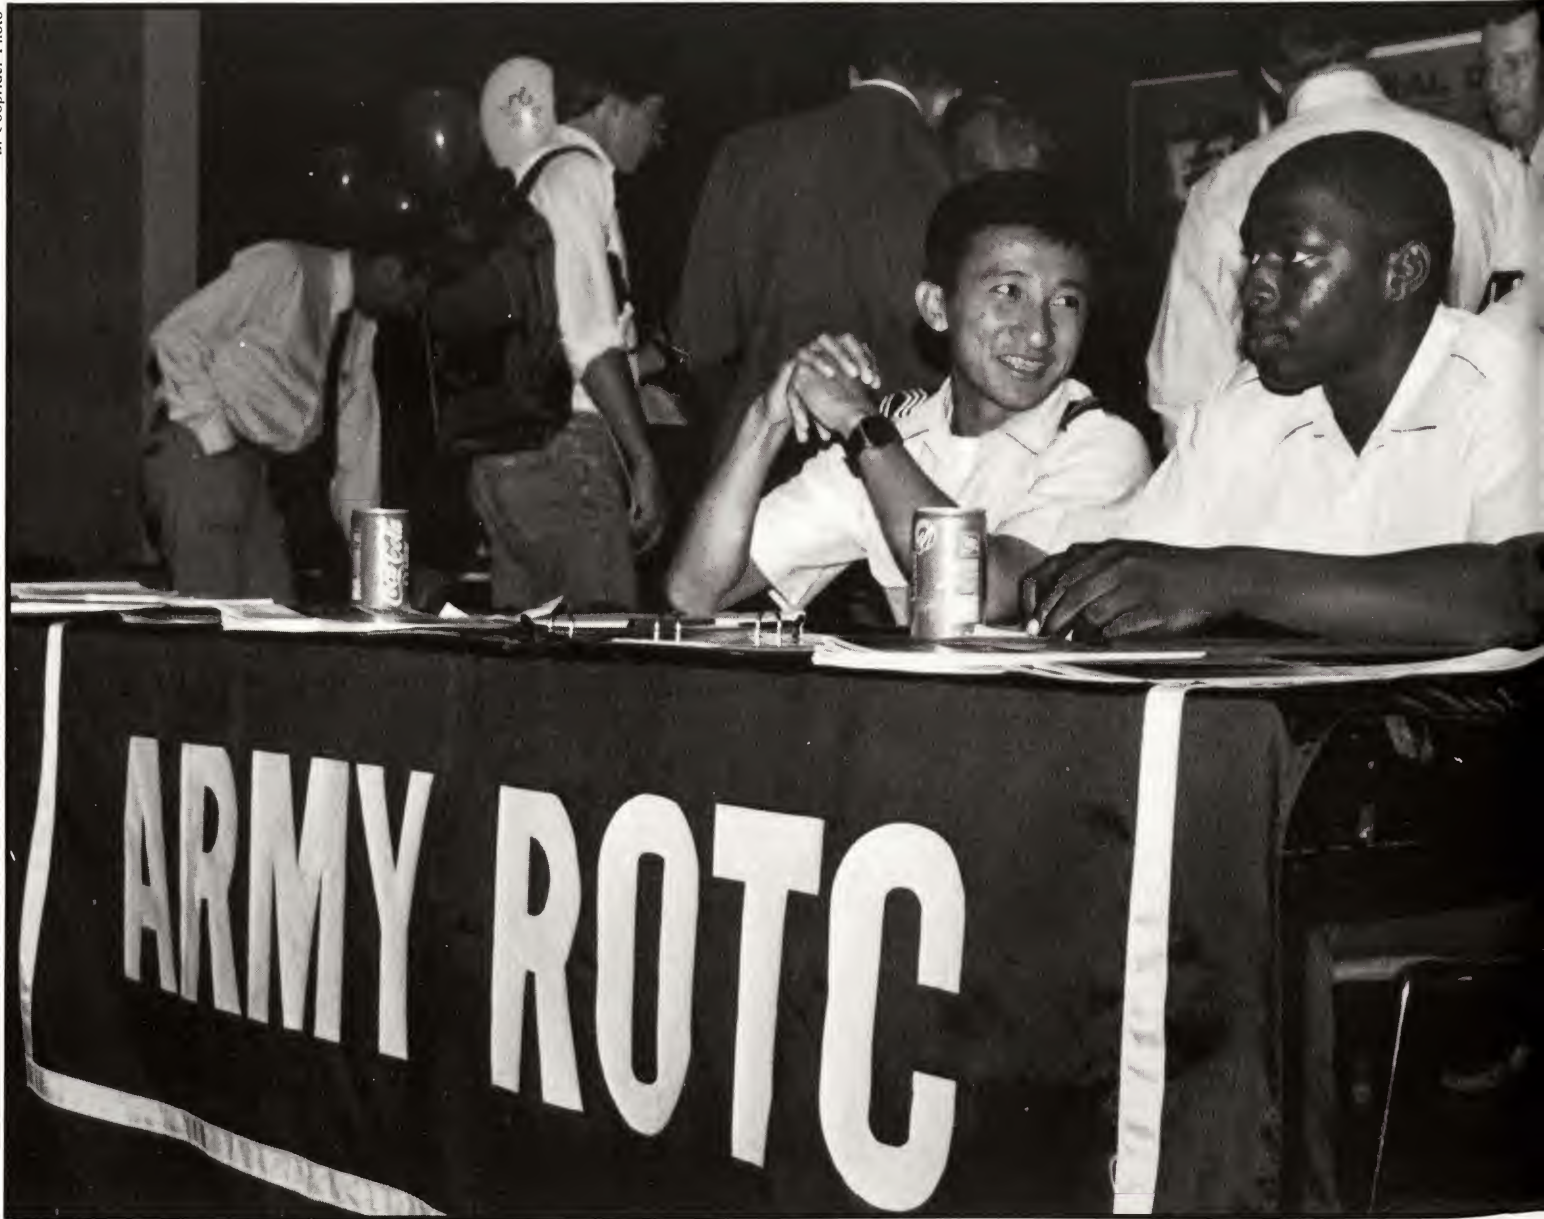

ARMY ROTC

Not only did Army ROTC provide its members the chance to graduate as officers for service in the United States Army, the National Guard or the Army Reserves, but it also enhanced the cadets' education in management training and leadership experience.

The Army cadets held many fulfilling activities for its members. In the fall, students flew in helicopters to a rappelling field exercise. In addition, the cadets practiced weapons at the live firing ranges, and during Veteran's Week participated on navigation courses in tactical exercises.

The cadets celebrated by holding a Military Ball for the members and their dates. Also, they hosted a national air rifle meet organized each year by the Daisy Air Rifles.

KADETTES

The Kadettes were very active with the Army ROTC Program. The group attended the Spring and Fall field training exercises with the cadets where they learned such skills as rappelling and climbing. They visited the V. A. Hospital each month, and helped organize various ROTC receptions. During Homecoming, the Kadettes were hostesses for the University at the Mullins Library Parents' Reception. RESIDENT'S INTERHALL CONGRESS

The student's voice in the residence halls. RIC had a new outlook and attitude under the Bill Adam's presidency. With such activities as Casino Night '86 and a Halloween showing of "Rocky Horror Picture Show" making a slight profit, RIC was able to make charitable contributions to Fayetteville's Women's Shelter, the United Fund and the Old Main Campaign.

After the drastic reduction in Residence Life's budget, RIC was cut for the spring semester, but took action to insure its continuation in the Fall of 1987. A $5 fee was approved by a campus election with RIC receiving $5 per resident each semester.

STUDENT AMBASSADORS

J. Bailey Photos

The Student Ambassadors provided tours two days a week of Old Main in an effort to give it the recognition and publicity it deserves. The group also acted as hosts to the visiting high school seniors by organizing campus tours and taking the prospective students to classes. Scholars and Achievement Weekend were just two events sustained by the interests of the student ambassadors. Phone calling campaigns were also a successful activity for the group.

Two members of the student ambassadors who performed above the level of regular member involvement received tuition-paid scholarships for their efforts and high academic standing.

Members of the Pershing Rifles were allowed to examine how the military officers are trained in their activities without having an obligation to join the military. Students could obtain ROTC scholarships easier through the Pershing Rifles and could join all three teams—ranger, rifle and drill.

The group made rappelling trips to Weddington Woods, and also attended a ranger competition in Monroe, Louisiana with 19 other schools and finished fifth this spring.

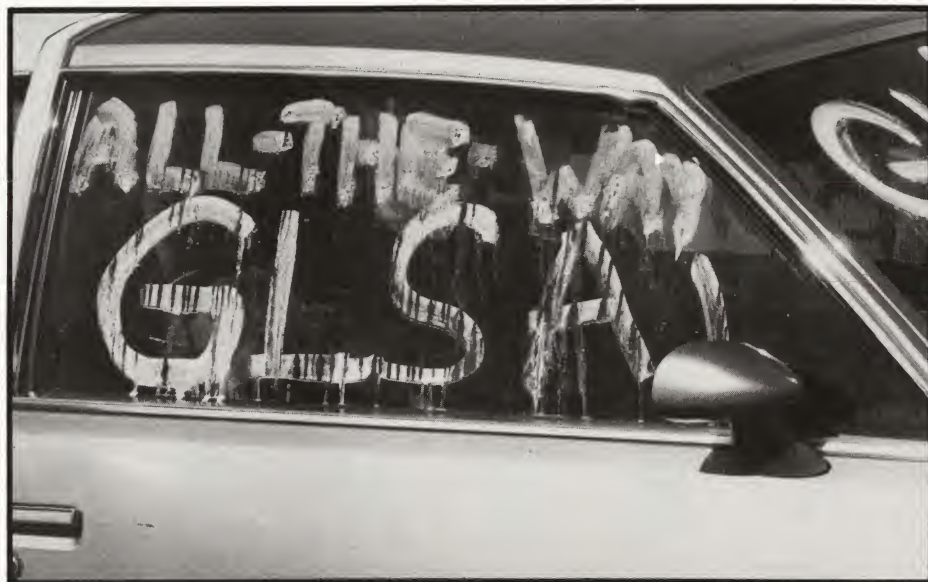

Some of the activities the students were trained in were the assembling of a .45 pistol, M-16 rifle and an M-60 machine gun, below. Left, the group practiced maintenance and driving of an M113 armored personnel carrier.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY ANGEL FLIGHT

Arnold Air Society helped Air Force cadets to work on their leadership skills while being involved in an honor society.

The members organized several projects during the fall and spring semesters. With the V.A. Hospital, they raised over one hundred American flags on special patriotic occasions such as Veteran's Day and POW/MIA Day. Also, Arnold Air sponsored four blood drives for the Red Cross and actively participated in the Anti-Youth Suicide programs.

In addition, the group was most visible to the campus on home football game days when they sold game programs as a fundraiser.

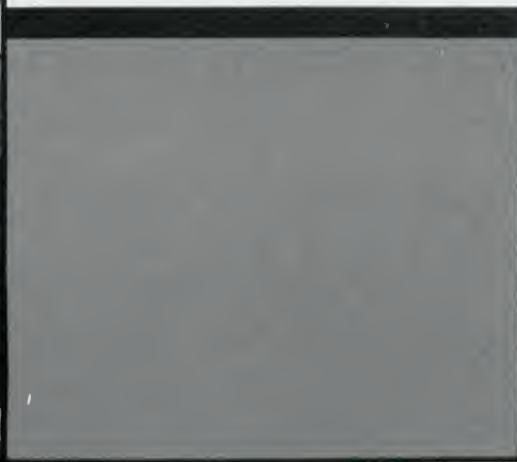

Angel Flight is a unique national service organization that serves as a civilian liaison between the University of Arkansas, the Air Force, ROTC and the community.

Members of Angel Flight contributed to many of the same activities as Arnold Air.

REID

Reid is the only under-graduate, co-educational dorm for both male and female students. The residents like to say, "Life is a Beach and so is Co-ed living". To meet the needs of the diverse population, the staff and students plan various educational activities.

Reid Hall put on such activities as a Pajama Twister party, an Art Contest, the Roommate Game and a beach party. They had sports events that allowed everyone to get involved. Reid sponsored an in-hall football tournament, Play Day, and a co-recreational volleyball game.

This co-ed dorm also had more than fun on their minds because they also held independant study groups, an assault /rape speaker, and a health fair. Reid is a great place to live and their slogan is, "We're going places!"

Hey guys- break dancing isn't that hard to do. Here take lessons from the master.

Fulbright Hall was the favorite stomping ground for the freshman girls. This dorm is known for its escort system concerning the male population and its expansive courtyard in which the girls go to catch those rays when the weather turns warm.

This hall has quite a few necessities for the college life such as a microwave, a big screen T.V., a VCR which can be checked out, and a sewing room. Fulbright pulls out all the stops to keep its residents happy. A chuck wagon dinner featuring a live band, Parents Day, Holiday on the Hill, a Valentine's Sweetheart Dance, Aerobics every Tuesday and Thursday nights, and last but not least; the ever popular Luau!

In addition to all of these activities, they still found time to participate in intramural softball games and attend several helpful seminars to help the girls deal with college life. Movie nights always helped fill those long boring weekends when there was nothing to do. The end of the year brought the traditional "Food for Finals" and fun was had by all.

J. Bailey Photo

Futrall Hall is a small residence hall with a familiar, friendly atmosphere. It is a very active hall that holds many events with Holcombe. The first two weeks of school, Futrall and Holcombe planned activities every night and a beach party dance. Futrall sponsored monthly drop-ins and movie nights for those boring weekends. They also held their ever popular Christmas Dance at the Holiday Inn and hit Lake Wedington for Wedington Day Follies.

This dorm was very active in intramurals and played to defend their AAA Championship. All of this wrapped together made Futrall a Great place to live this past year.

Holcombe Hall once again showed its pride by winning the Intramural overall Championship by competing and winning intramural sports all year. Holcombe started off the year with Superdorm Week, a series of events with their sister hall Futrall. The week concluded with a Beach party which was fun for all.

The annual Holcombe-Futrall Christmas Formal was held at the Holiday Inn and it was a night to remember because the Holcombe Formal Lounge caught fire! Well, all in all, the night was an extreme success.

The year concluded with a day of fun and sun at Lake Wedington in April. Games, canoe races, and a game of tug-of-war allowed for a day of enjoyment and of course all was alcohol free.

Holcombe is a unique place in the residence hall system; a hall with an extreme amount of pride here at the University of Arkansas. CHAMPIONS this year -- what will it be next year?

Gibson may be small in size but it is "the place to be!" Interaction with other students and the formation of life-long friendships is strongly encouraged in this dorm. Gibson is a little different compared to the other dorms due to individual sinks and carpet in each room. The rooms are larger in size and can be decorated easily giving it a feeling almost like home. It is right in the heart of campus so that its residents need not walk far to classes which is a blessing when the snow hits.

A few of this year's activities included the Annual Gibson Twister Party, Luau during residence hall week, RIC Casino night, and several pizza nights with Yocum Hall. Gibson was honored to be the sponsor of Sharon Wilkins who was chosen 1986/87 Razorback Beauty, and a group of ten residents placed second in the Delta Upsilon Annual Christmas Singphony.

Other residents of great distinction were Helena Mitchell, Terri Williams, and Mitzi Mitchell chosen in the owner of serving as Razorback Bells.

HUMPHREYS

If you were looking for a quiet, boring, run-of-the-mill place to be this year, humphreys was definitely a place not to find it. Amid ringing telephones and full mailboxes, Catie Morse and Kim Lucas guided the Hall Senate through successful activities such as a Post Tulsa Football Game Victory Dance, a reception at Homecoming, movie nights, pizza parties, and even a Pre-Mid-Term Blowout dance. These events made the difference in campus life.

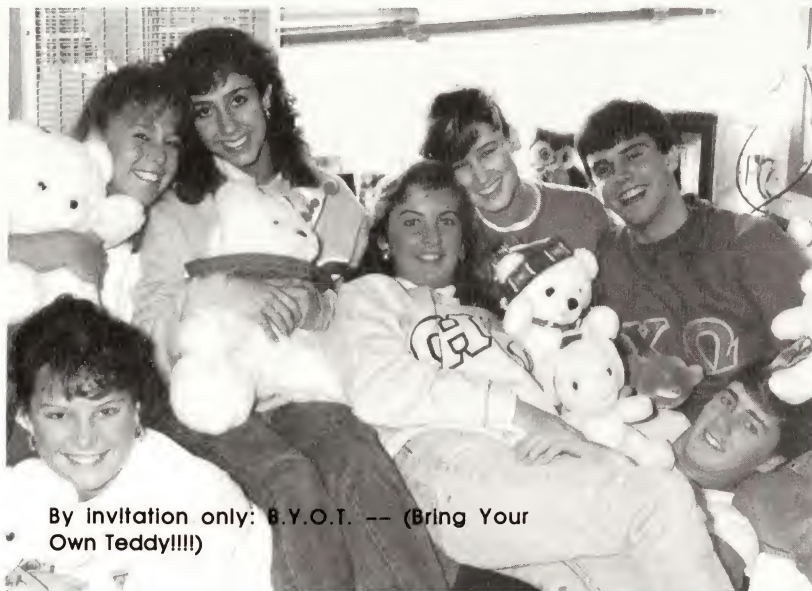

The winning difference was also a part of Humphreys. The hall had a very successful basketball team, and its football team won the University's 3A womens division, eventually finishing in the top sixteen in the nation.

The energy, enthusiasm and humor of the staff made the largest difference of all. Known as the "Nirvana Club", they were responsible for events such as: splatter paint parties, St. Nick and Valentine's treats, picnics, and even a Red Light Special Dance following MardiGras. Sounds like Humphreys was the place to be -- check it out!

POMFRET

Pomfret was the place to be this past year. Their residents participated in various activities throughout campus. This residence hall was kept very busy by putting on dances, cookouts, picnics, movie nights, and guest speakers; just to name a few.

The "Go Hog Wild" Dance proved to be a big event and Spectre 7 rocked the house. Pomfret hosted the Independence Dance for "GDI" week which also proved to be a big hit. Dances and parties are not all this hall did. They also held a self-defense demonstration, a rape seminar, and a stress workshop for when those finals roll around and the stress piles up. The Pomfret flag-football Super Bowl was a bit smash and it helped to round out the year.

Pomfret is always very active and keeps its upper classmen happy. It even has tennis courts for those who like to keep in shape not to mention that they are right beside the HYPER building. It's got all the makings of a super place to live.

PIGPEN GOSSIP

On September 2, 1986, Razorback fans were startled when it was announced that Kevin Rehl was transferring to Oklahoma Baptist University. This announcement added the number of basketball players to leave the pigpen to four. Kevin left following Byron Irvin and Darryl Scott in transferring to other schools, and Jay Crane, who was removed from his scholarship this summer.

Kevin, a junior guard from Velma-Alma, Oklahoma, was red-shirted his freshman year under Sutton because of back problems. In his sophomore year, he played very little, but he played 24 games under Coach Richardson and logged four starts, despite being hampered by a stress-fracture in the early season. Kevin averaged 5.7 points per game and was the team's top free-throw shooter last year.

Kevin's eligibility at Oklahoma Baptist should begin after the finish of the fall semester. With Kevin's departure, Arkansas now has 14 players on scholarship—one under the maximum allowed by the NCAA. Everyone who knew Kevin and admired his ability for basketball will miss him, but we wish him luck at OBU.

It was later learned that Mike Carpenter, 7'2" and a transfer from Minnesota, has also left Nolan's pigpen.

The first injury of the season for the basketball team came in a pre-season pick-up game when Mike Ratliff broke his left hand and was in a cast for four weeks. Ratliff was ready for the first day of practice and looking forward to the new season.

On the professional scene, Darrell Walker, a former Razorback basketball player under Eddie Sutton, was traded to the Denver Nuggets by the New York Knicks for Denver's first-round pick in the 1987 NBA Draft.

PROPOSITION 48: Stressing Academics In Athletics

Because of the wide number of college athletes who move into the pros without graduating, several proposals have been made to help balance athletics and academics. The football team will have no spring practices, less athletic scholarships, and smaller coaching staffs while the basketball team will have a shorter season, and the season will start later.

This summer many college football teams found themselves the losers when faced with proposition 48. This proposition states that for an athlete to be eligible, he must have achieved a 2.0 (C) high school GPA in a core curriculum of 11 academic subjects. A minimum combined score of 700 out of 1600 on the SAT or a composite score of 15 out of 35 on the ACT must be achieved before a player can participate in any sport. The proposition is expected to be fully in effect by 1988.

THE FIGHT AGAINST DRUGS IN SPORTS

The NCAA's new testing program may eliminate the use of certain drugs in college sports. More than 3,000 athletes playing in 74 NCAA championships and 19 post-season football games will be tested for more than 90 banned drugs, including anabolic steroids. In basketball, the NCAA will test eight players from each of the tournament teams after the title game. In Division I football games, 36 players (22 based on playing time and 14 at random) will be tested before and after each bowl game. In track, the first three finishers in each event will be tested, plus two athletes chosen at random.

If any athlete tests positive for drugs after a game, his team's performance will be nullified.

The most competitive universities may feel compelled to begin their own testing programs. It's possible there may be some modification of the testing rules at the NCAA's January meeting.

Here at the University of Arkansas, Coach Ken Hatfield has said that if one of his players has a problem with drugs, then that player should come to him, and they will work on getting that person some professional help. If a player does not come forward and then tests positive for drugs, he will be kicked off the football team for good.

Coach Nolan Richardson showed his stand on drugs last spring when he suspended William Mills and Kenny Hutchinson for using drugs. After both players got professional help, Richardson said that both players were removed from scholarship but could still play basketball as walk-ons. Both players agreed to this stipulation and are looking forward to the new season.

Arkansas is one of the few schools in the SWC and NCAA, who has a drug testing program for its sports program.

SWC INQUIRIES

The NCAA is conducting an official inquiry into alleged recruiting violations at Texas Tech between 1982 and 1984, the school announced. A statement released by the University said it has until November 3 to respond to the allegations. The nature of those allegations was not detailed in the statement.

School officials refused to say what sport the inquiry involves, but said the allegations do not involve members of the current coaching staff of academic irregularities.

Texas Tech has been asked to make its own inquiry into the allegations and then appear before the NCAA Committee on infractions. An investigation into Houston Football team has resulted in the resignations of Coach Yeoman and several former players have admitted that they had received money and cars from coaches and boosters.---Judith McGee.

Recent allegations from Dallas imply that an SMU football player states that he accepted cash to play for SMU after the school was placed on three years probation by the NCAA for other violations. If this allegation proves to be true, SMU will have to suspend their football program for two years.

BASKETBALL CAMPS

Every summer young people of all ages are packed off to camp for a week or so to enjoy themselves and meet new friends. At the University of Arkansas, the coaches welcomed campers to the campus to teach them the fundamentals of the sport they came to learn more about and maybe if they are lucky, to teach them a little more about themselves.

The different camps that were available to young people this past summer were: Track and Field, Basketball, and Tennis. The tennis camps were held in Springdale as well as Fairfield Bay, Arkansas.

Nolan Richardson's basketball camps were very popular with the young people this year, and they got to meet several professional basketball players who played for the Razorbacks in the past. Darrell Walker, formerly of the New York Knicks, now with the Denver Nuggets, stopped by to talk to the young people about how drugs and athletes don't mix. Milwaukee Bucks stars, Sidney Moncrief and Paul Pressey also made appearances at this year's camps. Paul Pressey played for Richardson recently at Tulsa.

The camp staff included Richardson and his assistant coaches; Scott Edgar, Andy Stoglin, Al Grushkin, Wayne Stehlik, and Mike Anderson. Terry Mercer, the basketball secretary, handled all correspondence.

The primary purpose of the camps was to teach the young campers to develop their skills, improve their abilities in the finer points of basketball, improve as people, and most of all, to have fun. The camp staff incorporates the development of sportsmanship, leadership, and citizenship into the program.---Judith McGee

PIGPEN CON'T.

In the ongoing problem with drugs and athletics, it was learned that Keith Peterson, a former player from 1979-1982, was indicted on drug charges in Little Rock on October 24, 1986.

Greg Horne, punter for the football team, who was the scapegoat for players and fans alike after the loss to Texas in Fayetteville last year, is rated the number one punter in the NCAA. This goes to show you can never underestimate a person's ability to come out on top.

In the romance department---Tony Cherico is seeing Texas' Head Coach Fred Aker's daughter. This romance is the talk in both states. Way to go Tony!

Injuries have plagued the Hogs during this season. Out for the season are James Rouse, running back, a sophomore from Little Rock Parkview. Todd Jones, a second-team offensive tackle. Jones, a freshman from Little Rock Central tore ligaments in his left knee.

Charles Washington was selected as the Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week during the week of October 27-31 of this year.

Arkansas' junior noseguard, Tony Cherico, was nominated October 31 for the 1986 Rotary/Lombardi "College Lineman of the Year" Award.

Derrick Thomas, a native of Paducah, KY received the Crip Hall Award, which is given to the outstanding senior in Arkansas' Homecoming Game. Thomas, one-half of Arkansas' 1-2-punch fullback tandem, rushed for 62 yards on 10 carries to help his Razorback teammates to a 45-14 thrashing of the Rice Owls at Razorback Stadium.

James Shibest's catch late in the third quarter of the Texas A&M game had a double meaning. The 41-yard pass completion from Greg Thomas gave Shibest the Arkansas career yardage reception record and meant great field position for the Razorbacks against seventh-ranked A&M. The pass came with Arkan-

OLD MISS

The season opener against Old Miss could not have been a better spirit builder. The Porkers trampled the Rebels with a final score of 21-0. Rouse and Greg Thomas scored in the first half and Foreman, making the final TD, summed up the night when he danced across the endzone in the second half. Although the Rebels fought hard throughout the game, the Hogs were just too much for them. Old Miss coach Billy Brewer is reported to have said, "They controlled the ball game and never let us in it."

TULSA

The Hurricane's attempt to unravel the Hogs was a failure. The first Fayetteville game of the season was one of fear, excitement, and finally sheer joy. Razorback fans "ooooed" and "aahhed", most of them on their feet throughout the game. The Porkers battled it out to a final victory of 37-17. The Hogs showed their inexperience in their first hot game, but they toughed it out and won the war. The victory was not gained without its share of injuries; the major loss being the starting halfback, James Rouse, with a cracked fibula. A highlight of the game involved the Razorback field goal kicker, Kendall Trainer, who broke a personal record with a 55 yard field goal. Once again Trainer proved that he was worthy of the position as a Hog kicker.

G. Bell Photo

The Razorbacks drew a crowd of 41,808 at the TCU massacre, the first televised game of the season, and the Hog fans were not disappointed in the outcome. The Hogs squashed the TCU Horned Frogs with a 34-17 victory. One long breathtaking scare appeared when the Horned Frogs scored for a 17-13 lead, which carried through to the second half. The Hogs realized what had to be done, rallied together, made proper adjustments along the way, and gave the crowds a reason to celebrate. Highlights included James Shibest's promotion to second place on the receiving yardage list, which could not have been done without the help of quarterback Greg Thomas. The Hogs outdid themselves at another super game and deserve a pat on the back for a job well done. Good goin' guys!

TEXAS TECH

Blind faith and confidence weren't enough to down the Red Raiders as they outscored the Hogs by 10 points with a 17-7 final. The Razorbacks just could not seem to get it together, and Arkansas' only touchdown came right before the half. A trick play was engaged where Donnie Centers went for a 14-yard run, making the score 7-0. During the 15 minute span, the Hogs seemed to lose everything. The Red Raiders took advantage of the situation and gained their first win of the season. The problem seemed to evolve from the offensive wishbone formation. Texas Tech had mastered a defense against its own wishbone, thus producing futile attempts for Arkansas.

TEXAS

The Hogs made an exceptional comeback from their loss to Texas Tech when they slaughtered the Longhorns in Austin with a 21-14 victory. The win crushed a twenty year record, consisting of Texas wins in Austin against Arkansas, and gave the Seniors a Razorback game to remember and brag about. The score was tied at the half when the coaches and teams went in for a halftime pep talk. Evidently the Porkers took it to heart, for they came out and took control of the ballgame. The Longhorns, picking up nine penalties throughout the game, actually fed themselves to the Hogs, but regardless of which team did what, the point is that the Hogs ate barbequed Longhorn for supper!!!

HOUSTON

The Hogs did it again! After stomping the Texas Longhorns the week before, the romping Razorbacks came back for another victory of 30-13 against the Houston Cougars. These two wins combined created a record for Arkansas by being the first time to beat Texas and Houston back to back. The game appeared to be one-sided from the very beginning. Compared to the Razorback cheers, the Cougar fans seemed to be whispering. The crowds were not the only ones on the Porkers side. Greg Thomas did great as quarterback and John Bland gave Houston a big surprise when he exercised his speed in throwing the ball. The Hogs did a super job and continue to prove there uniqueness in the game of football.

RICE

Homecoming for the Hogs! And what a Homecoming it was. With a score of 45-14, the game wasn't too exciting or breathtaking from a fan's point-of-view, but it is a game which one can be proud. The Hogs showed the Owls who was in charge from the beginning of the game. Before one could look twice at the scoreboard, the Razorbacks had already gained a 24 point lead with the Owls still sitting at zero. The one play that did cause excitement to ripple through the stands was Greg Thomas and Donny Centers' 77 yard pass-catch-and-run, which ended up on the 6 and 10 o'clock new, ESPN, and USA's highlight films. The Hogs had just made another step in their climb for the COTTON!

BAYLOR

It was a gray afternoon in Waco, Texas for the Hogs, and the Cotton seemed to diminish before our eyes. It was a tough and emotional game for the team but they just couldn't hold out. The problem erupted when Baylor figured out how to out maneuver the Hogs' triple option. Once Baylor figured out the Razorback strategy, they began to use a little of their own by changing their defensive tactics. The Razorbacks 2 point lead in the 4th quarter did not give them much security as the Bears beat them with a 29-14 victory.

TEXAS A&M

The most exciting game of the year took place in War Memorial Stadium on November 15 against Texas A&M. The Hogs did a great job of holding their own, but the big turning point of the game occurred when Nate White made an outstanding interception, which became very controversial. The catch was later assured of being fair with the use of TV replay. As the game continued, one couldn't have tied the fans to their seats. The crowds were absolutely roaring as the last few minutes of the game ticked away. A&M constantly attempted passes in the game's final seconds, and one could have heard a pin drop as the fans for both teams held their breaths. In the end, the Razorbacks prevailed with a score of 14-10. The Hog fans were ecstatic, and all they could say was, "better luck next year, guys."

SMU

The Hogs didn't have much trouble chasing the Ponies back to the barn with a 41-0 stomp in Texas Stadium. The Razorbacks had control of the game from start tot finish. The Porkers made a big rush for 503 yards total offense mostly played by the reserves. SMU housed a lot of hard feelings about their probation, and Hog fans didn't offer any comfort. They bombarded the side-lines with flying oranges after the first touchdown.

At the half, Arkansas had already gained a 24-0 score. Needless to say, SMU was not happy, and they became rather hostile on the field when Razorback fans wouldn't discontinue their "Arkansas Razorback" roar. The Ponies crawled to their locker room after the final, and the Hogs crossed their fingers for the deciding game for the bowls between Texas A & M and Texas. The question was "Cotton or Orange?"

OKLAHOMA

Arkansas had forgotten the Cotton and traveled to Miami in search of the Orange. The problem was that they were up against one of the toughest teams in the country, the Oklahoma Sooners. The Sooners, ranked in the top 5, were eager to get at the throats of the Hogs. They wanted revenge for the 1978 game when the underdog Razorbacks downed the Sooners 31-6. Well, revenge was what they wanted, and revenge is what they got.

One of the problems seemed to be that the Hogs just didn't get off to a good start, and they had to leave their game plan early. After the Sooners first TD, Arkansas tried their best to catch up, but they just couldn't do it. Barry Switzer often said that his team was bigger, stronger, and faster. The statement seemed to be proven more and more correct as the night progressed. In the end, the final scoreboard read 42-8; Oklahoma came out on top.

THE TRAGEDY OF YVONNE RICHARDSON

On the afternoon of January 22, 1987, the Arkansas Razorback players and fans were informed of the death of Nolan Richardson's 15-year old daughter, Yvonne. Yvonne died after a two year battle with Leukemia.

Early last fall, Yvonne was in remission and things looked good, but in mid December Yvonne came out of remission and was sent to Minneapolis Minnesota for surgery and later went to Tulsa where she took a turn for the worse.

A memorial service was held in Tulsa on January 24, and the funeral was held in El Paso, Texas on January 27.

The Razorback players wore a black band on their uniforms and would continue to do so for the remainder of the season in memory of Yvonne. Also, the team dedicated the season to her.

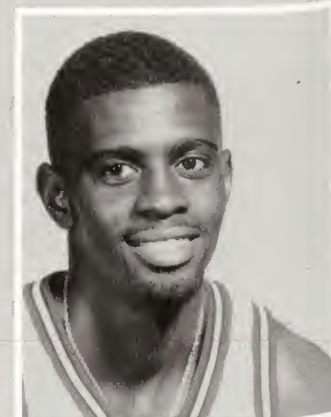

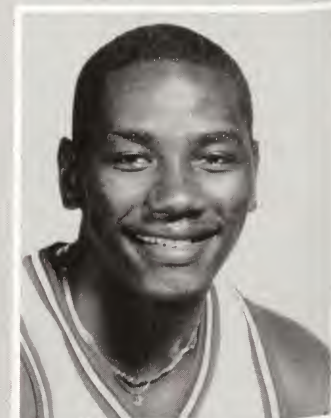

THE RETURN OF MILLS AND HUTCHINSON

University of Arkansas Basketball coach Nolan Richardson said that Kenny Hutchinson and William Mills "will be treated as if nothing happened" when the season begins.

What happened was that Hutchinson and Mills flunked a drug test and were suspended last February 26. Both players accepted Richardson's offer to return to the team this season as walk-ons.

Hutchinson and Mills underwent drug rehabilitation treatment at Charter Vista Hospital and Mills said that they continue to receive counseling for two or three hours every week.

On December 22, 1986, William Mills was permanently suspended for undisclosed reasons after he had worked his way back into the starting line-up. It was later revealed that he had failed a drug-test and would finish up his education at the University of Arkansas-Little Rock.

LOUISIANA TECH

The Bulldogs handled the Razorbacks' full-court pressure with ease en route to a 39-34 halftime lead, but Arkansas' coach Nolan Richardson made a minor defensive change. The Razorbacks turned their second half into a slaughter, outscoring Louisiana Tech 58-25, ending in a 90-64 Razorback victory. Tim Scott led the Razorbacks with 23 points. Andrew Lang added 14 while Ron Huery hit for 13, and Mike Ratliff made 12 points.

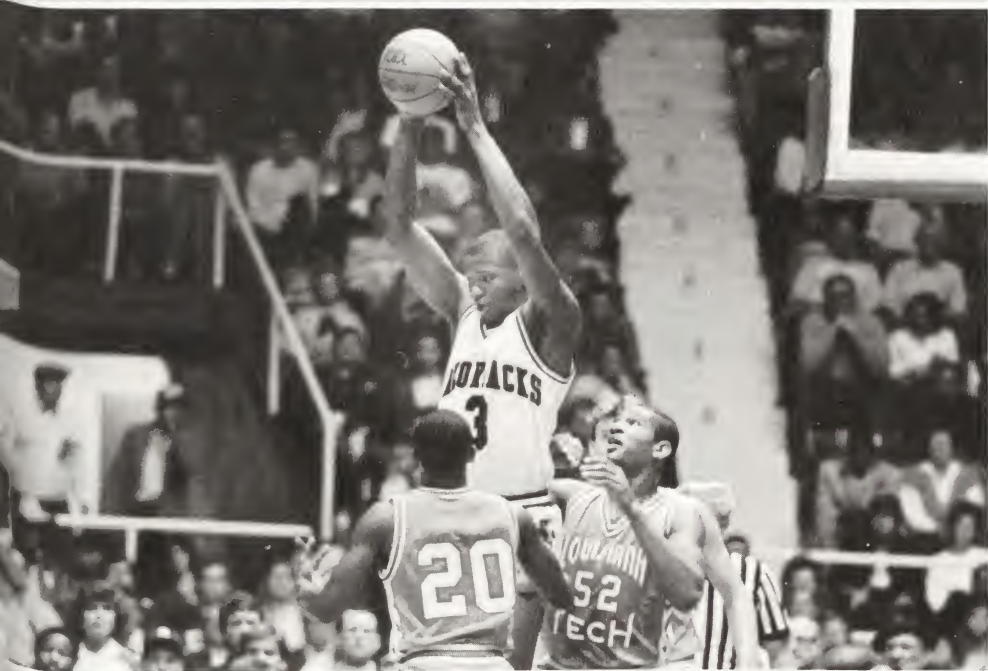

GRAMBLING

The Razorbacks played sloppy, but they were still able to win their season opener against Grambling University 84-65 at Pine Bluff.

Arkansas had 32 turnovers in its victory.

The Hogs led 41-35 at the half. During the second half, Arkansas turned a 10-point lead into a 27-point lead over a seven-minute time span.

Shawn Baker led Arkansas in scoring with 13 points. Mike Ratliff and William Mills added 12 points each and Philip Mckellar contributed 11.

KANSAS

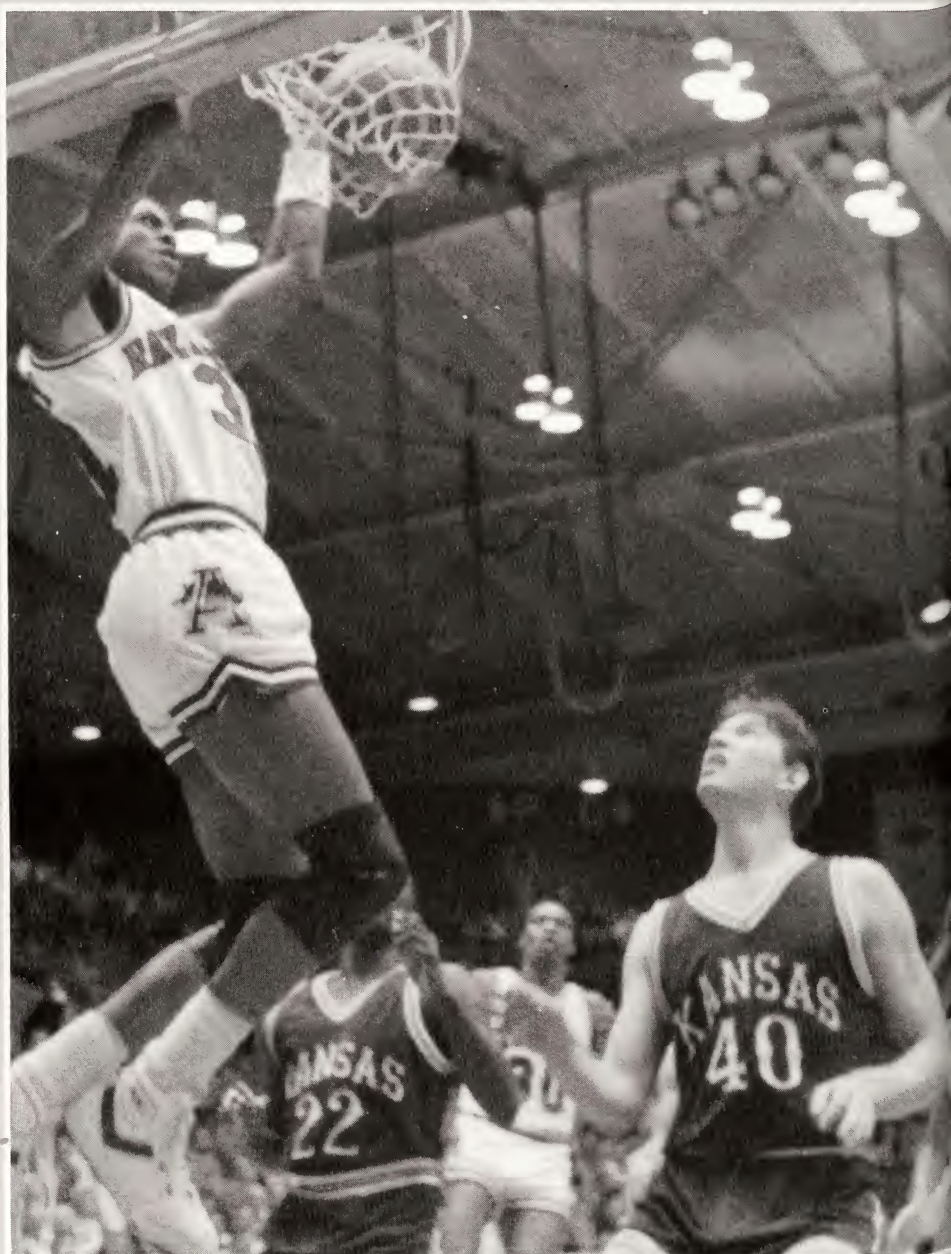

In one of the greatest and loudest games ever played at Barnhill Arena, Arkansas battled sixth-ranked Kansas toe to toe for 32 minutes and then ran off and hid in the final eight minutes for a stunning 103-86 victory.

The game was tied 11 times and the lead changed hands nine times before Arkansas went up to stay with 7:49 left, 71-68, on a 3-point play by William Mills. Soon afterwards, KU's Mark Pellock got a technical foul for grabbing the rim, Mills made the free throw, Tim Scott added two more free throws and Arkansas never led by less than four again.

The Hogs began to break contact when Mike Ratliff hit a 3-pointer for an 81-74 lead.

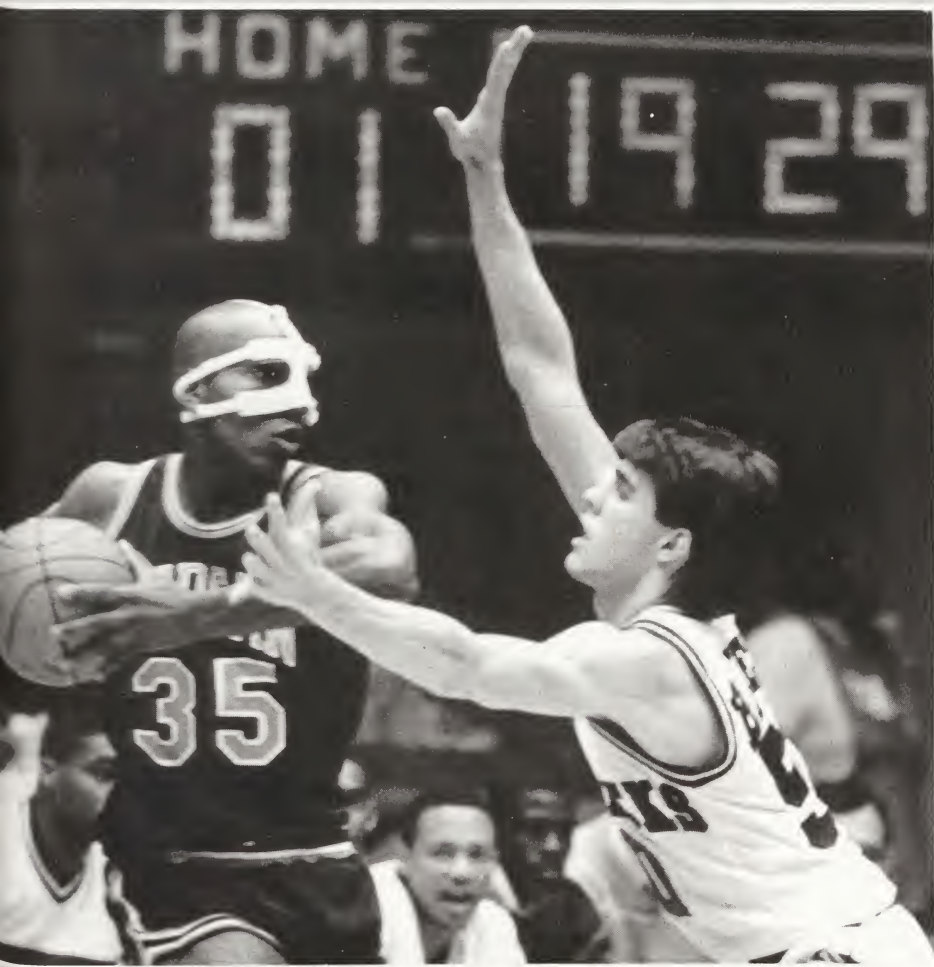

Hog center Andrew Lang, who had 10 points, five blocked shots, including two on one possession, finally heard the kind of cheers he'd worked for two-plus seasons and got a high five from Coach Nolan Richardson when he exited late in the game.

The game lasted nearly 2 1/2 hours, partly because the Big 8 crew called every foul it saw. But give the refs this - they were consistent and they didn't have rabbit ears while both Larry Brown and Nolan Richardson worked them pretty good.

MORGAN STATE

Freshman Philip McKellar scored 12 points and grabbed five rebounds in the second half to lead the Hogs to a 106-57 victory over Morgan State.

Morgan State took a 2-1 lead at the 19:24 mark, then the Arkansas guards did their stuff. They either fed the ball into Andrew Lang or drove to the basket. The result was an 18-0 run in a time span of nine and a half minutes.

McKellar was the leading scorer with 18 points.

William Mills had his first start since the Feb. 19 game against Rice last season after he and teammate Kenny Hutchinson were suspended for drug use. Mills scored 10 points for the Hogs.

Mississippi trailed 42-41 at the half.

VIRGINIA

Poor shooting by the Razorbacks enabled the Virginia Cavaliers to oust Arkansas 78-66 in Pine Bluff.

The Hogs hit only 25 of 66 field goals and nine of 23 free throws.

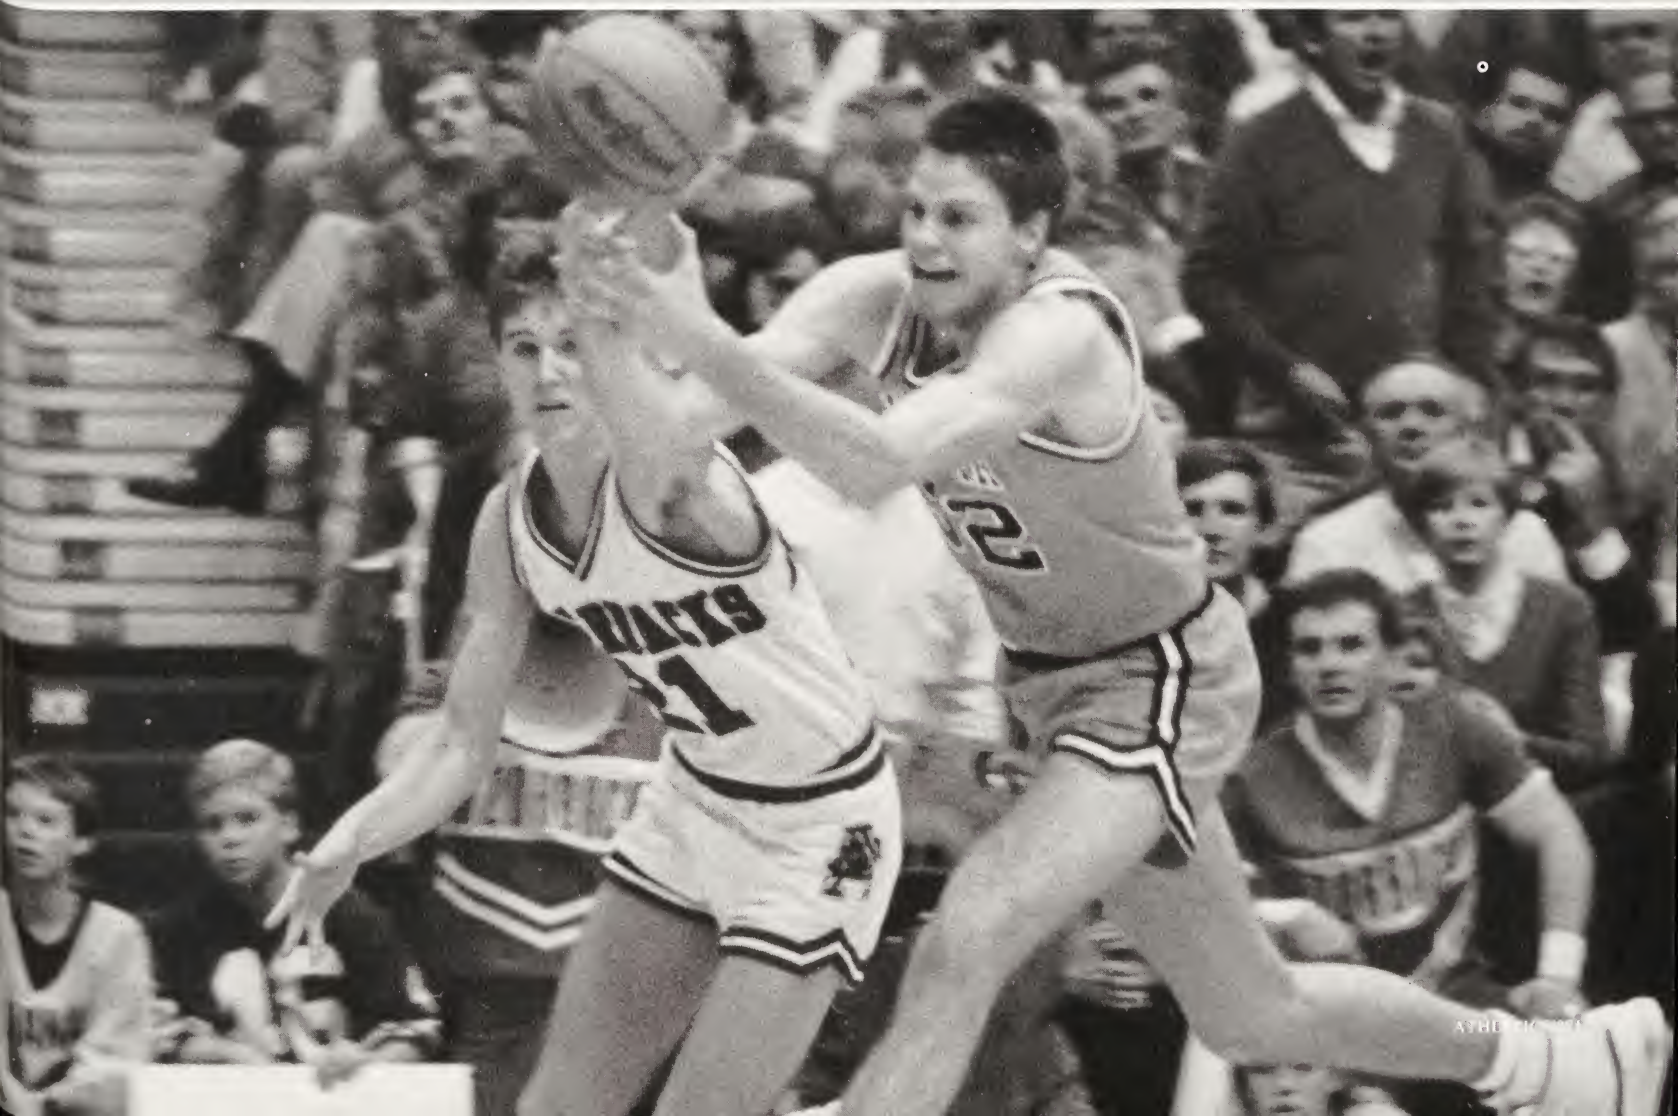

The Razorbacks jumped out to a 19-12 lead at the 12:20 mark, but their inability to score made them fall behind at the half 34-28.

Freshman guard Ron Hurey led the Hogs with 14 points. Mike Ratliff and Philip McKellar added 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Arkansas' Razorbacks are well aware of the benefits of college basketball's three-point line.

Against TCU, they discovered its drawbacks.

Texas Christian scored 30 points from behind the 19'9" semi-circle to hand the Razorbacks an 80-77 SWC defeat in Barnhill Arena.

Arkansas fought back from a 41-39 halftime disadvantage to take a 53-51 lead on Andrew Lang's 10-footer with 10:23 left to go in the game and moved it to 60-58 when Tim Scott hit a three-pointer with 8:48 to go in the contest.

The Razorbacks had tied the game at 72-72 with 4:03 to go on Mike Ratliff's layup off a Scott feed and later cut the margin to 77-75 when Shawn Baker converted a Ron Huery feed with 1:01 remaining.

Stephan Moore jammed home a late basket to notch the final margin.

The Horned Frogs found victory much easier the second time around breaking open a tight game with a 25-4 first half run to cruise to a 73-66 SWC triumph.

The Razorbacks scored an impressive victory and barely edged the North Texas State Eagles 99-96 in overtime action.

Arkansas was down by five points, 88-83, with 20 seconds remaining in the game. Shawn Baker then made a move to the basket, scored and picked up a foul. He made his free throw to put the Hogs down by two, 88-86, with 19 seconds showing on the clock.

Tim Scott then fouled NTSU's Dion Alexander with 17 seconds left to play. Alexander missed the front end on his free throw.

With four seconds remaining, Ron Huery hit a 15-foot jumper to send the game into overtime.

During the first half, the score was tied nine times. Andrew Lang put Arkansas ahead for good by hitting two free throws with 7:40 left in the first half to put the Hogs up 21-19. The Razorbacks led at halftime 35-25.

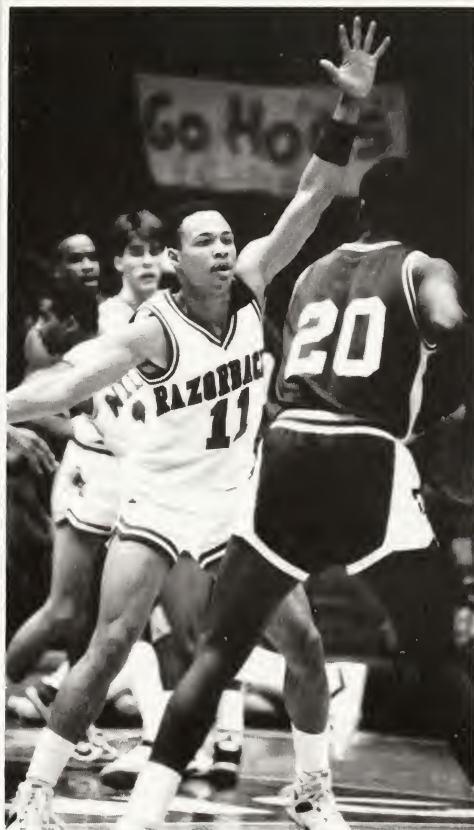

Arkansas had a comfortable lead through most of the second half, but Rice pulled to within five points, 48-43, with 7:47 left in the game.

Andrew Lang contributed to Arkansas' victory with nine points, 10 rebounds and eight blocked shots.

Shawn Baker led Arkansas in scoring with 15 points. Keith Wilson added 10.

The Hogs were able to fight off the Texas A&M Aggies and pull out an 87-69 victory in Barnhill.

Arkansas took a 17-4 lead early in the first half. A&M was able to cut the Hogs lead to three points, 41-38, then Arkansas scored the last three points of the half to lead at halftime 44-38.

The Hogs never fell behind in the second half.

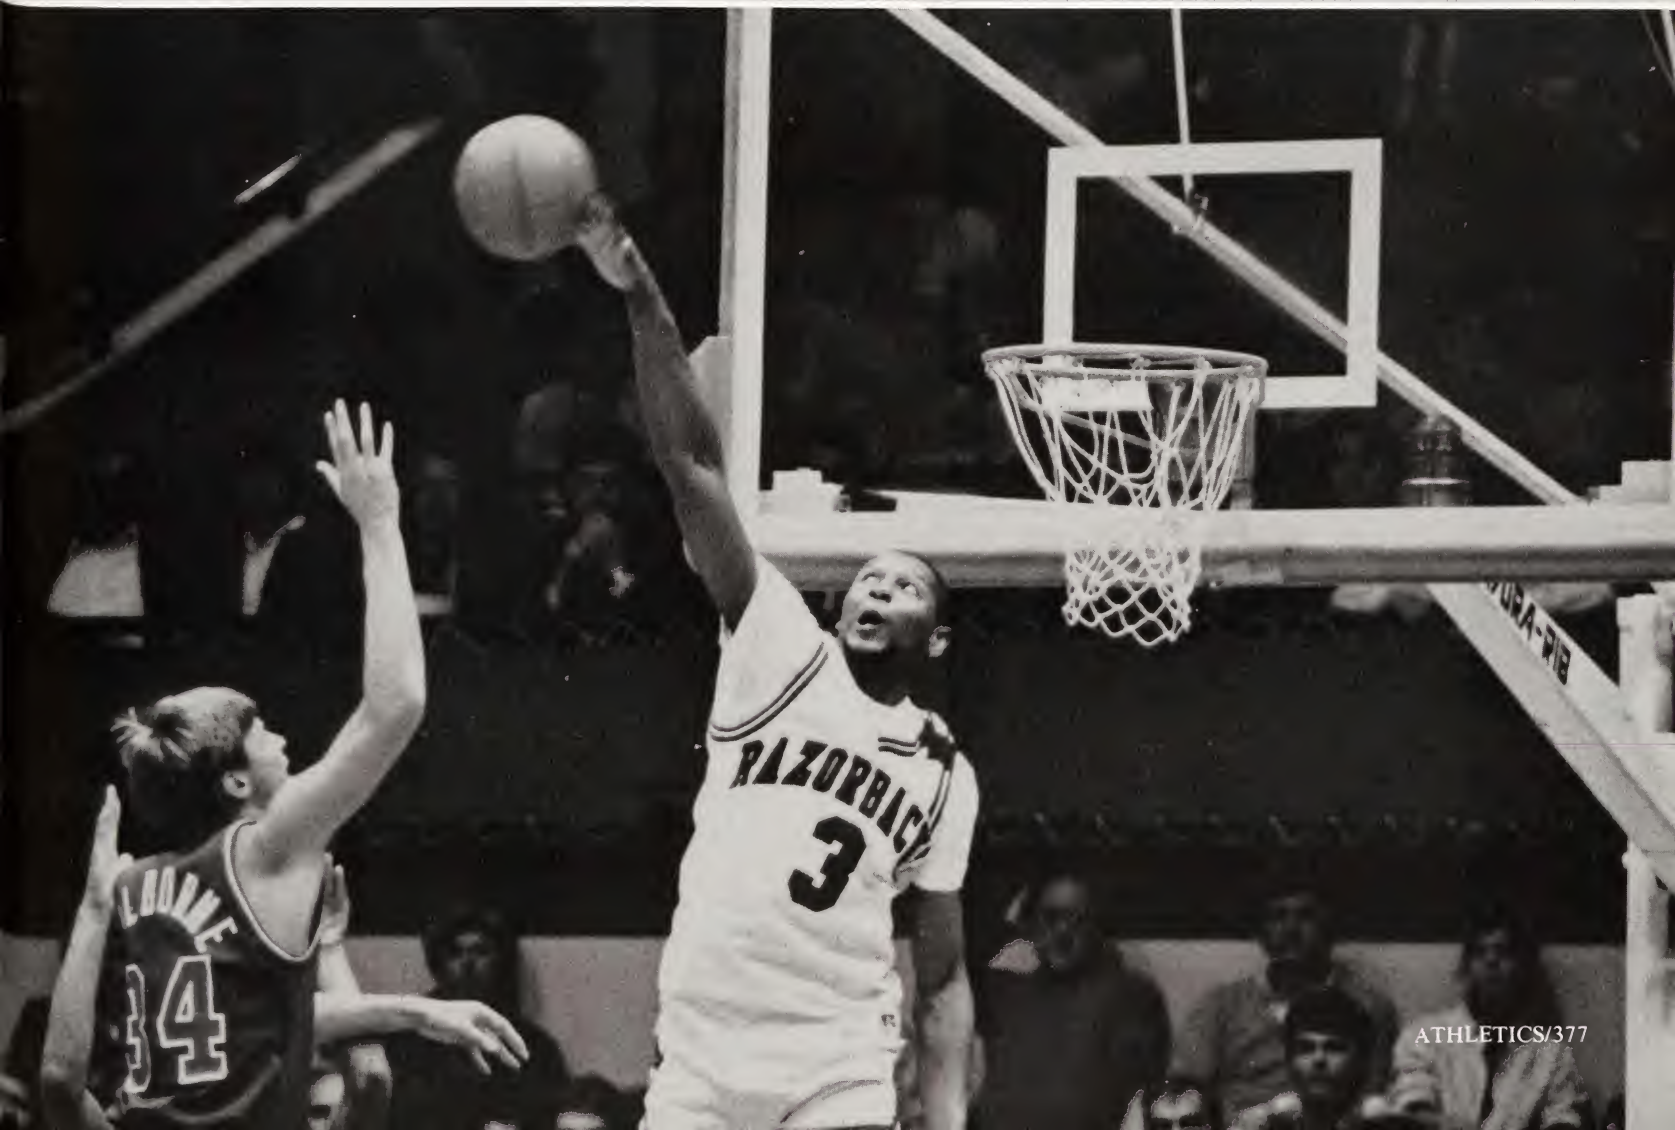

Ron Huery paced the Razorbacks with 25 points. Tim Scott added 15, Andrer Lang chipped in 13 and Shawn Baker scored 10 points.

After a two-game absence due to the death of his daughter, Yvonne, Coach Nolan Richardson returned to Barnhill to see his team whip SMU 76-63.

SMU led Arkansas, 17-14, 10 minutes into the game, but the Hogs bounced back with a 23-9 spurt and led at halftime 39-32.

SMU kept the Hogs' margin between four and 10 points the first 15 minutes of the second half, but Arkansas pulled away in the final five minutes.

A big factor in the Hogs' victory was their free throw percentage. They shot 19 of 22 while the Mustangs only hit nine out of 24.

Texas Tech overcame a wobbly start and defeated Arkansas 95-73 in their first meeting of the season.

The Red Raiders continually beat the Razorbacks' press in the opening minutes of the second half outscoring Arkansas 21-10 to open a 55-41 advantage with 14:07 remaining to play.

Shawn Baker paced Arkansas with 11 points, while Tech outrebounded the Hogs 45-37 and out-shot them from the floor 51.6% to 39%.

In their second meeting, Arkansas Coach Nolar Richardson unleashed the Razorbacks' version of the twin towers and the result was a 93-75 thrashing of Texas Tech in Barnhill Arena.

The Razorbacks started both 6-11 junior Andrew Lang and 6-9 freshman Mario Credit against the shorter Red Raiders, and the result was a total domination by the Hog skyscrapers.

The Razorbacks came up short as they lost to Houston, 57-54.

Houston led at halftime, 27-22. They came out in the second half and scored six unanswered points. The Hogs began to cut into Houston's lead about midway through the second half with the score at 44-34.

The Hogs scored six unanswered points and made the score 44-40. Houston kept a six-point lead until Tim Scott hit a three-point jumper to reduce the lead to 57-54 with 13 seconds left.

Houston had a chance to put the game away for sure when Ron Huery fouled Ronald Ferriera with 11 seconds on the clock. Ferriera missed the front end of a one-and-one.

Philip McKeller put a three-point attempt to try to tie the game. The ball rimmed the basket and fell out giving the Cougars the victory.

The number one ranked Lady Longhorns overcame the Lady Razorbacks January 6 in Barnhill Arena. The Texas team was unable to gain a lead until about nine minutes remained in the game. Despite a desperate 3-point attempt by Juliet Jackson with only four seconds remaining, the Lady Razorbacks failed to tie the Lady Longhorns thus preserving the 59-56 score.

"...It was probably the best basketball we've played all year," said Coach John Sutherland after the 86-69 win over Texas A&M. The entire game was a struggle with the Aggies constantly battling for the lead, both the Lady Razorbacks jumped over the hump when Tracy Webb, with 13:45 left in the contest, landed a 3-point bomber. From that moment on the Razorbacks had control. Monica Brown finished the night with a game-high of 23 points. Lanel Dawson added 19 and Bronwyn Wynn scored 15.

Seniors Tracy Webb and Monica Brown celebrated their 22nd birthdays by dumping Rice, 78-53. Along with the win, Webb moved to third on the Lady Razorbacks all time scoring list. Coach Sutherland had nothing but praise for his team. "We came out and played some hard-nosed defense ... everybody played well on offense..." he said. The game was close in the beginning, but after an even score at 17, the Hogs ran off 10 straight points, which can be attributed to their tenacious defense. They never looked back after gaining the lead. Arkansas had four players to score in double figures. Webb led with 14, Dianna Harris scored 12, Brown had 11 and Shelly Wallace finished with 10 points. Brown also finished with a game-high of 13 rebounds.

Despite the Lady Razorback's 94-71 win over SMU, Coach Sutherland was slightly upset over the first half of play. The score was 50-41 at halftime in favor of the Hogs. He threatened the girls with one of his grueling 6:00 a.m. workouts if they allowed the opponent to score 75 or more points. Apparently the team remembered from past experience since they held the Mustangs to only 30 points in the second half of play. "The way we were playing, I thought we were going to have a NBA score. But we were pretty good in the second half." Monica Brown and Bronwyn Wynn had game-highs totals of 16 points each. Wynn also had 13 rebounds. Lanell Dawson scored 15 points, Tracy Webb and Sheila Burkes each had 12 and Shelly Wallace finished with 10.

The Lady Razorbacks struggled for a 78-60 win over the Lady Cougars to hold onto their second place position in the SWC race. It was a "great team win" said Coach John Sutherland after the game. The pull away occurred midway through the second half when Missy Davis, who finished with a game- and career-high of 29 points, landed a seven foot jumper which tied the contest 32 all. Arkansas was up to stay.

Oral Roberts Tulsa

The matchup between the Lady Razorbacks and the Lady Titans of Oral Roberts University proved itself to be a little less than the barn burners all fans enjoy. Nevertheless some exciting records were set by the Lady 'Backs with their 115-66 victory. First of all, the team as a whole broke a high score record of 109 set in the '85-86 season against TCU. Senior Monica Brown became the sixth member of the UA women's 1,000-point club when she downed a layup with 16 minutes left in the first half. Junior Cindy Daley set a personal record by scoring 20 points for the Lady Razorbacks. Needless to say the ORU game was over before it started. The Lady Titans never had a chance. Brown and Daley were top scorers with 20 points each and Shelly Wallace came in second with 18. Dianna Harris supplemented with a total of 13, and Lanell Dawson wound it up with an even dozen.

Despite Coach Sutherland's disappointment in offensive playing, the Lady Razorbacks ripped the Baylor Lady Bears with a score of 77-51. Sutherland started his final home game of the year with his five departing seniors: Monica Brown, Sheila Burkes, Diana Harris, Bronwyn Wynn and Tracy Webb. Regardless of the Lady 'Backs' continuous lead throughout the game, Sutherland could not find a good thing to say about his offense, except that they did have a great start in the second half. Defense, on the other hand, proved to be a different story. Baylor managed only nine boards and made only 10 of their 39 field goal attempts. Brown led the Lady Razorbacks with 19 points, Wynn and Lanell Dawson each contributed 14 points and Webb and junior Shelly Wallace scored 11 a piece.

The Lady Razorback tennis team won their first conference match with a 6-3 victory of the Baylor Bears.

Winning singles matches for the Lady Hogs were Betsy Meachum, Helena Norrby, Celeste Rice and Sandy Schwan.

Christy Rankin and Linda Norris teamed up for a double win.

The Lady Razorback tennis team debut was a success as they edged Ole Miss 5-4 in Pine Bluff.

Loretta Sheales and Christy Rankin were a big key to Arkansas' victory. Sheales won at the number two singles spot by defeating Dawn Parkhurst 6-4, 6-4. Rankin, at the number three position, beat Jackie Ruppert 6-2, 6-3. The two then teamed up at the number one doubles spot to win 6-3, 7-5 over Parkhurst/Ruppert.

Also winning for the Lady Hogs were Helena Norrby, number six, 7-5, 6-2 over Heather Harlman; and the number two doubles team of Celeste Rice and Lisa Gibson 6-1, 6-1 over Lynn Hennessey/Laura Nelson.

On October 31, 1986, Coach Ron Hightower announced his resignation as the head coach for the men's tennis team. Athletic Director reported that Coach Hightower was "just not motivated as an administrator". A couple of days later, women's tennis coach, Martin Novak, was named interim coach until a new head coach can be found.

Coach Hightower's resignation came a couple of days after the completion of an inhouse investigation of the men's tennis team. This led to several of the tennis players announcing that they would transfer to other colleges, and it was found that several former and current players were academically ineligible to play tennis this year. The athletic department said that there were no plans to discontinue the program, and a thorough search for a new coach would be under way. The coach will have to uphold both the athletic and academic side of the tennis team.

NEW COACH FOR MEN'S TENNIS

The direction of the Arkansas men's tennis program was determined on November 24, 1986 when Frnak Broyles announced that Mike Patrick had been named the new head coach.

Patrick, 29, took Kentucky's women's tennis team to the NCAA tournament the last season and was named Southeastern Conference Coach of the year. In his two season's at Kentucky, he compiled records of 25-6 and 22-6.

Following his 1979 graduation from Middle Tennessee, where he lettered four years and was the captain of the tennis team for three years, Patrick worked for renowned tennis teacher Nick Bollettieri. He joined the Kentucky program in the fall of 1984 and was Junior Federation coach for the United States Association this past summer.

"I look forward to coming to Arkansas and trying to re-establish the program," said Patrick. "We want to build back the prominence the program has had. I'll start recruiting immediately. We want to build a solid program."

BRAD WILLIAMS INVESTIGATION

Brad Williams, a tennis player from Perth, Australia is involved in another investigation. On October 20, 1986 the UA athletic department announced that Williams, who is also a punter for the football team, would be held out of football practice and games until a check of his secondary education in Australia could be completed.

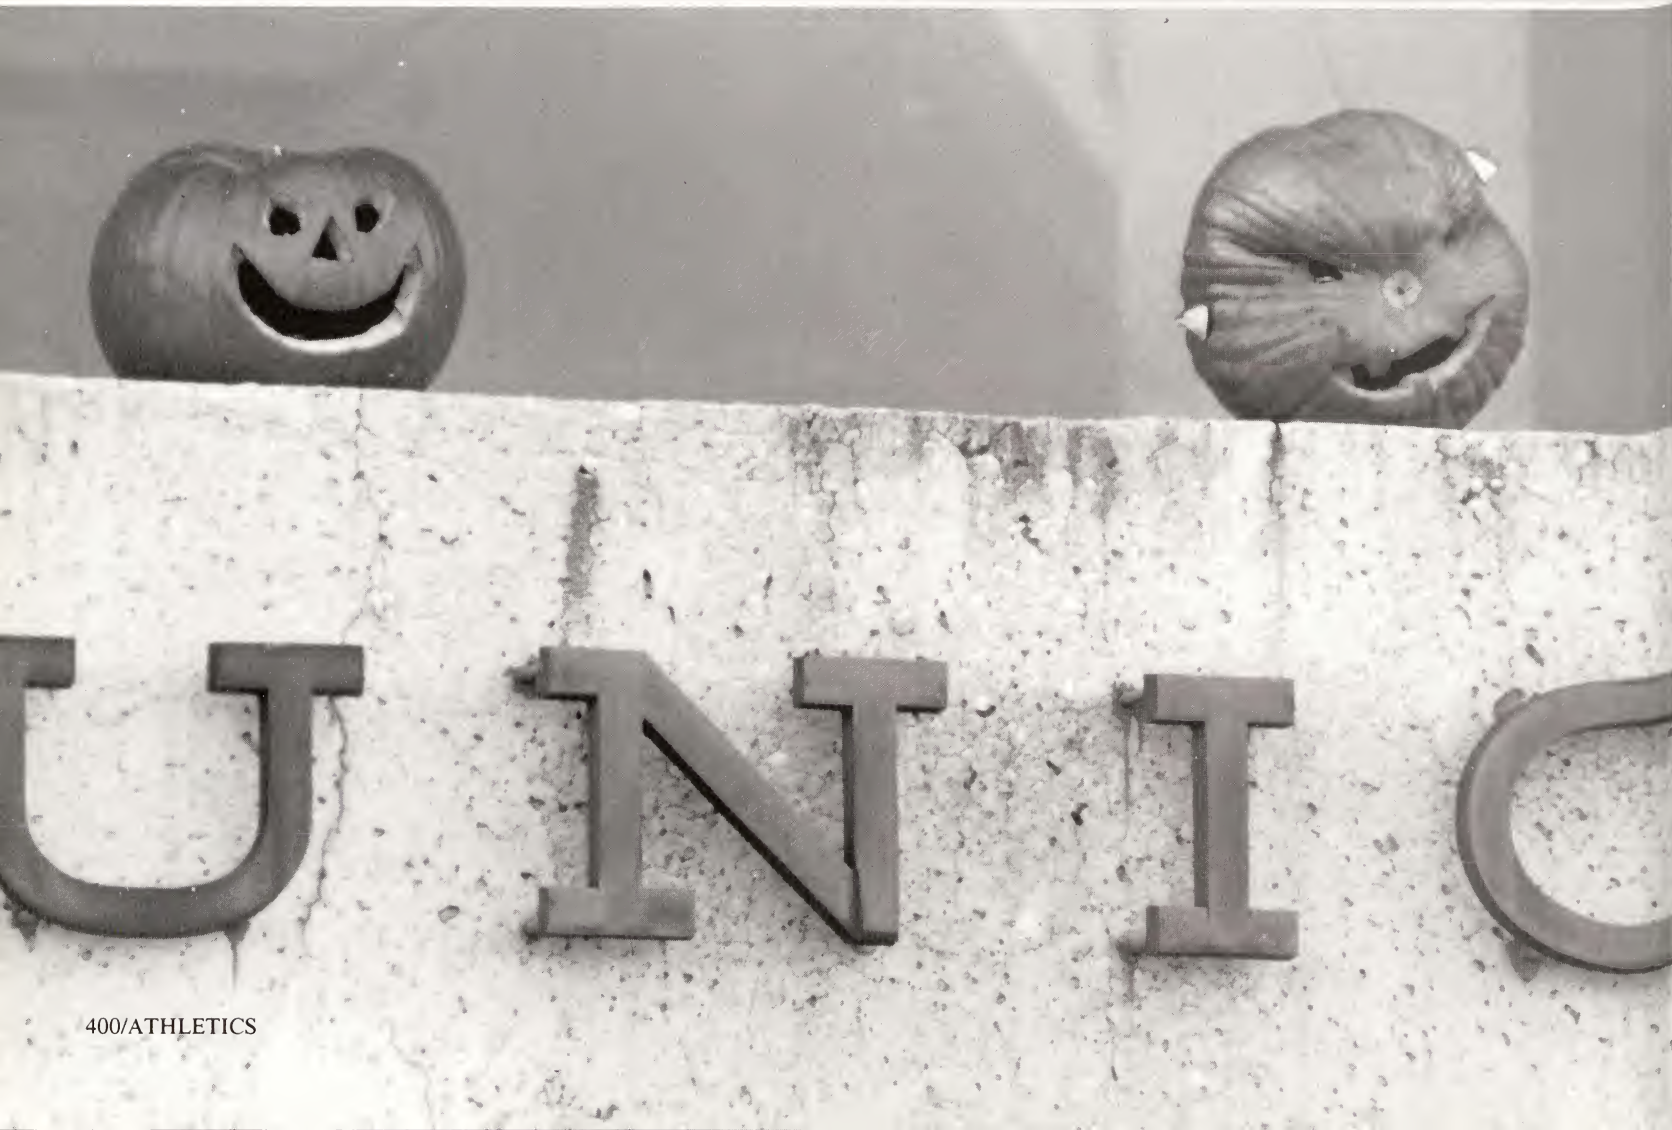

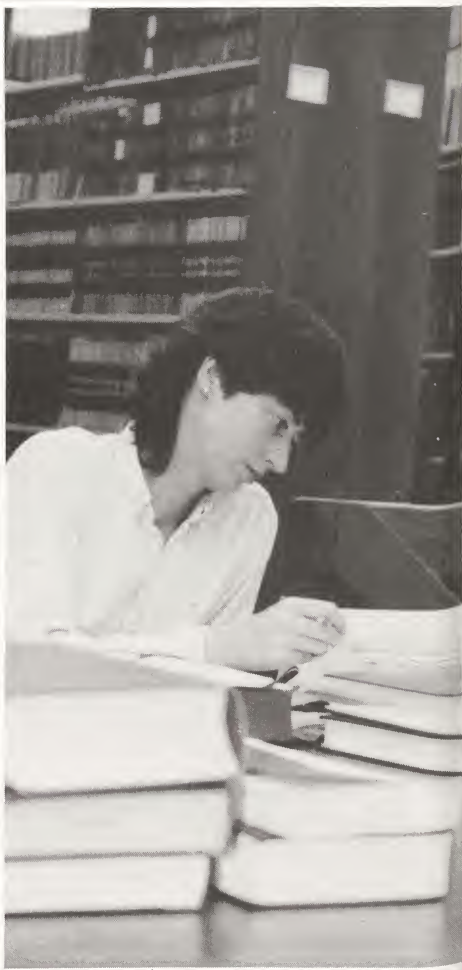

Frank Broyles said that Jerry Welch, Arkansas' administrative associate for academics, is handling the inquiry and will turn his findings over to faulty representative Al Witte. Broyles said that Witte will then present Arkansas' report to the NCAA. Welch refused to comment on the situation, as did Arkansas tennis coach Ron Hightower, who recruited Williams out of Perth, Australia.

Williams enrolled at Arkansas last winter and played on the Razorbacks tennis team, which finished the season ranked 10th nationally. Williams was 9-9 playing numbers 4-6 singles. Last summer Hightower and Williams, who played Australian Rules Football, talked to Hatfield about the possibility of Williams punting for the football team.

Hatfield placed Williams as the "pooch" punter while senior Greg Horne would handle the longer kicks. Williams has punted five times for a 36.0-yard average. Horne leads the nation in punting with a 49.0-yard average on 29 attempts.

Frank Broyles said that there is no question that Williams was academically ineligible. The athletic department is trying to determine now who is at fault for Williams being admitted into the University. The investigation has become a long drawn out process because of the distance involved in dealing with the Australian officials. Broyles ended by saying that when the athletic department completed its investigation into exactly what happened in the Williams case; a full report would be sent to the NCAA.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

The Razorback cross country team was last year's NCAA runner-up and is currently ranked number one in the nation. They annihilated a nine-team field in the season opener. Junior, All-American, Joe Falcon won the 8,000 meter race (about five miles) for the team in a time of 24:29. The other four scorers finished in the top ten to seal the victory.

In cross country, each runner is given the same number of points as the place he finishes in the race. (i.e. first place gets one point, 20th gets 20 points.) The points of the top five runners on each seven man team are added together, and the team with the least points wins.

Arkansas' 24 points easily outdistanced the 52 points of the University of Colorado. Freshman, Reuben Reina, the 1985 national high school cross country champion, started his Razorback career off right. He finished this meet in second place.

The top-ranked Razorback Cross Country team defeated their competition at the Oklahoma State Jamboree in Stillwater. Junior All-American Joe Falcon won the 10,000 meter race with a time of 31:33. The Razorbacks swept eight of the top 11 places in the seven-team field for a score of 19 points--16 points is a perfect score in cross country.

Lady Razorback Soccer

Because of an NCAA bylaw, the University had to add another womens team sport. The sport chosen was soccer.

The first soccer match in University of Arkansas history took place at the UA soccer field. The Lady Razorbacks played TCU and lost 10-0.

The Lady Razorbacks claimed their first win by forfeit when Dockhurst had to cancel a game.

They did end the season on a winning note by defeating Southwest Missoure State 4-0 for their first on-the-field victory during their last match.

Three of the most heralded former University of Arkansas baseball players were back in Fayetteville on October 31, 1986 to continue their support of the Razorback baseball program.

Kevin McReynolds of the San Diego Padres and Johnny Ray of the Philadelphia Phillies along with their agent Tom Selakovich, talked with reporters that afternoon. The trio were among several former Hog baseballers on hand for the Arkansas/Alumni Baseball game.

The Razorbacks held the Alumni to two hits while scoring three unearned runs to take a 3-0 victory.

Don Thomas singled, advanced on McReynolds' error and scored on Dan Campbell's single to give the Hogs a 1-0 lead in the third. Andy Skeels followed with a double to score Campbell and make it 2-0.

Stan Click scored from the third on an infield error in the seventh to make it 3-0.

Ray Harris was the winner, while Steve Krueger took the loss. McReynolds, Ray, and Reynolds were 0-7 on the night.

Proceeds from the game, centered around Arkansas football homecoming weekend, went to help pay the way for a five-game, five-day trip to Hawaii in February for Norm De Briyn's Razorbacks.

In a dramatic and exciting game, Arkansas, ranked fifth in the nation, edged the number one rated Oklahoma State Cowboys 9-8.

Troy Eklund and Andy Skeels had back-to-back homers to lead the Hogs to victory.

Eklund hit his ninth homer of the year over the left field wall to tie the game. Skeels then followed with a homer over the right field wall to give Arkansas the victory.

Andy Skeels led the Hogs to a doubleheader victory over the Houston Cougars at George Cole Field.

Skeels drove in six runs in each game to lead the Razorbacks to victory.

Arkansas beat Houston 10-3 in the first game and 12-6 in the nightcap.

The Razorbacks had to come back in the second game as they were down 5-0 in the third inning.

The SWC title was decided in the final inning of the final conference game of the season at Texas beat Arkansas 4-1.

The score was tied 1-1 until UT's Doug Lindauer scored from third on a balk by Bob Edwards. Texas then went on to score two more runs.

Akransas won the first game 9-3 to set up the final showdown for the SWC title.

PIGPEN CONT.

sas leading 14-7 and gave the Razorbacks a first down at the Aggies' 27 yard line. It also gave Shibest a total of 1,875 yards on 95 catches. Chuck Dicus, who played at Arkansas 1968-1970, caught 118 passes for 1,854 yards.

Arkansas swept the top honors for the week of November 17 with Tony Cherico and Ricky Williams who were co-receipients for Defensive Player of the Week in the SWC. Greg Thomas was named Offensive Player of the Week in the SWC, and honors came in the wake of Arkansas' 14-10 victory over A&M.

Freshman Larry Marks, a 6-7 forward from Columbia, Tennessee will miss eight weeks of action due to a stress fracture in his foot. Marks' foot will be in a cast for a week and the next seven weeks will be recuperation. Richardson said there was a possibility of redshirting Marks but that the decision would be made later on if it were deemed a necessity.

In Sports Illustrated, the College Basketball 1986-87 Preview Issue, the pre-season Brandenburg Concerto Award for the team most likely to make the sweetest string music goes to Arkansas. The Razorbacks were considered Wart Hogs last season but thanks to this year's recruits it will be a prize winning season from the three point line! Expected new comer's Ron Huery, Phillip McKellar and Cannon Whitby, a 6-foot guard from Obion County, Tennessee are expected to fire often from the long range line.. "The day they passed the three point rule, Cannon gained super-star status," says Arkansas assistant coach Andy Stoglin. In a recent game (19-and-under), Whitby made 11 of 18 three-pointers for 33 of his 39 points. Pig shooty, shooty, shooty.

When the Lady Razorback Basketball team began practice on October 15, they were minus three players. Cindy Daley was out for three weeks due to minor surgery, Robyn Irwin was out for two weeks due to a stress fracture and Lillian Valley was out because of a hernia.

SWC GETS TOUGH

The NCAA is conducting an official inquiry into alleged recruiting violations at Texas Tech between 1982 and 1984, the school announced. A statement released by the University said it has until November 3 to respond to the allegations. The nature of those allegations was not detailed in the statement.

School officials refused to say what sport the inquiry involves, but said the allegations do not involve members of the current coaching staff of academic irregularities.

Texas Tech has been asked to make its own inquiry into the allegations and then appear before the NCAA Committee on infractions. An investigation into Houston football team has resulted in the resignation of Coach Yeoman and several former players have admitted that they had received money and cars from coaches and boosters.---Judith McGee

Recent allegations from Dallas imply that an SMU football player states that he accepted cash to play for SMU after the school was placed on three years probation by the NCAA for other violations. If this allegation proves to be true, SMU will have to suspend their football program for two years.

PIGPEN CONT.

When Nolan's team hit the floor on October 15, for the first day of practice, they were minus Phillip McKellar, whose mother had passed away and Kenny Hutchinson, whose mother was sick. Both players were back on the floor the following week.

1986 marks the first year that the Razorbacks have beaten Texas and Houston back to back.

Before the Texas Tech game, it was reported that alcohol was taken to the new sky boxes, which was a violation of school policy. An article in the Arkansas Traveler set off an investigation by the athletic department and DPS which the outcome was that there was no proof of the allegations and who was responsible.

Editor's Notes

Thank God it's over!! If anyone told me what this year was going to be like I would have told them to keep the job. I do believe, however, that the experience I have gained has been one of the most beneficial experiences of my life. I would like to thank the Board of Publications for allowing me the chance that few people get.

Unless you have worked on a yearbook staff before you cannot begin to imagine what goes on behind the scenes. All you see is the final product. The final product takes lots of people and hours to put together. Without dedicated people the yearbook would not have been published.

In the past the yearbook has been late and like so many other editors I am still up here at the U of A finishing up the book. I am fortunate that this years book will not be but about five months late.

If it was not for the efforts of Charlotte Howard, Mike Elliott and Jennifer Walther this book would have been published many many months later and it is only their dedication to this book that it is coming out at all.

There are many people who I want to thank for contributing their valuable time and effort to the '87 Razorback.

Thanks to Charlotte Howard who took over as managing editor at a time that I needed her the most.

Thanks to Jennifer Walther, my business manager and friend, who was always there when the going got tough. I do not know how I would have survived without you. You are GREAT!

Thanks to Chad Dillard who took care sales and advertising for the '87 book. You were indispensable.

Thanks to Susan Jurasek for doing a superb job on the faces section; thanks to Lori Loper for typing all of our copy during the year and for taking over the Residence Halls section; thanks to Lori Fletcher and Wendy Johnson for working so hard on the athletics section; thanks to Chad and Jennifer for putting in so many long hours on the honors section.

Special thanks to James Ezell our financial advisor and to Patsy Watkins our yearbook advisor for their help and support throughout this past year.

I would also like to extend my sincerest gratitude to Professor Ivan Holms for all of his efforts in trying to change the structure of the Board of Publications. This restructuring would allow the student publications at this University to become financially independent and to be used as a laboratory for students to gain knowledge and experience that they would have otherwise missed out on. I hope his efforts are not in vain.

To my brothers of Delta Upsilon, I would like to thank you all for the help and understanding during this very trying year.

I also want to thank my roommate Walt Connell, for putting up with me this past year and listening to all worries and complaints.

Most of all I want to thank my Mom and Dad for all of their love and support throughout all of my strange endeavors. I love you both!

Well, it's over and this is the last page. I hope you have enjoyed looking at this book of memories and cherish it for many years to come.
